China Bomb 'Nuisance'

AMARILLO, Tex. (UPI)—A bomb scientist Dr. Edward Teller said Monday that, even if Communist China manages to explode a nuclear bomb soon, it will make the Chinese more of a "nuisance" than a serious threat to the free world.

Perhaps Soon

Nuclear Weapon For China

By PHIL NEWSON
UPI News Analyst

The United States issued a reminder on Monday that at least a crude nuclear weapon may be available to the man who wrote that "political power comes from the barrel of a gun."

The man who coined that phrase is Mao Tse-tung, spiritual and physical leader of Red China.

EARLY WARNING

A senior official of the U.S. Arms Control and Disarmament Agency held up the spectre of Red China's future nuclear capabilities before a group of U.S. and foreign newsmen. In a first version he predicted that the Red Chinese "probably" could touch off a nuclear blast within a matter of months. A retraction revised the time element to perhaps a year or more than a year.

In themselves, neither the earlier nor the later version contained anything new. Since the beginning of this year there have been warnings that Red China had the knowledge and probably the resources to explode such a device within a frighteningly short time.

TIMING SIGNIFICANT

Of perhaps more immediate significance was the timing, coupled as it was with the joint announcement by President Kennedy and Prime Minister Macmillan that the United States and Britain would accept a nuclear test ban agreement which did not include on-site inspections of tests in the atmosphere, in outer space or underwater.

The announcement said the two nations would continue to insist on on-site inspection of underground explosions.

Red China clearly was a part of the thinking.

Critics Excluded

Bishop's Twist Defended

GUILDFORD, England (CP)—A clergyman has asked critics of a bishop who danced the twist to keep away from his church after it is built.

Rev. Roy Trevilian said the critics of Bishop George Reinhold would be "quite lost among a bunch of people who not only say their prayers but who can also enjoy themselves without thinking too much about their dignity."

The bishop twisted at a barbeque on the site of a new church here. Several parishioners suggested he was not observing the dignity of his office.

"I'm fed up to the teeth with the 'dignity of Christianity,' which has ended up convincing 90 per cent of the population that Christianity has nothing to do with them," Trevilian said.

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—The U.S. Mariner II spaceship sped toward an intended December rendezvous with the planet Venus Monday night after several anxious hours when project scientists feared the craft was too far off course to carry out its mission.

But officials announced late Monday after exhaustive study of tracking data that "the space craft is on a trajectory that can be corrected to make it fly by Venus within a distance of 10,000 miles as planned."

ONLY 130,000 They reported that the 447-pound space voyage had been propelled only 250,000 miles off course instead of the 600,000 miles indicated by early figures.

If the United States' newest and brightest planetary explorer completes its assignment after a journey of 180,000,000 miles, it will provide the world's first close-up look at mysteries of the puzzling planet.

Among other things, Mariner II could determine whether life exists on Venus—something doubted by most scientists.

Mariner II carries a tiny 37.3-pound motor capable of correcting a trajectory error of up to 500,000 miles.

If applied to the 600,000-mile figure, firing the motor would have brought Mariner II only within 100,000 miles of Venus—far beyond the maximum 25,000-range officials set for obtaining useful data about the mysterious, cloud-shrouded planet.

FORMULAS NEEDED Scientists set to work preparing precise formulas needed for the critical firing of the motor in eight days, on Sept. 4.

They noted that all communications, data-gathering and other systems were working perfectly but that electronic bugs or space dangers—such as radiation, varying temperature and meteorites—could ruin parts of the experiment.

Even if the mid-course maneuver does work, they said, Mariner II would still face formidable hurdles on its trip.

MANCHESTER, England (Reuters)—Sir Bernard Lovell, director of Britain's giant radio telescope at Jodrell Bank, said Monday that if the instruments on the United States Venus rocket continue to work it will be the world's most successful investigation of space.

A quiet but nonetheless maximum effort is being made by the Social Credit party to recapture the elusive Revelstoke legislative seat in the Sept. 4 byelection.

Dykes Go 84 Killed In Korea

SEOUL (AP)—Several dykes collapsed early today at Namsan, 200 miles south of Seoul, sending disastrous flood waters from the rain-swollen Nam River pouring through the city. Officials said 84 persons were killed and 26 were missing.

More than 2,000 homes in the city of 70,000 population were flooded.

The valley was drenched by five inches of rain within a few hours late Monday afternoon.

Two men and a woman sailed into Los Angeles harbor last week after 57-day, non-stop trip from Yokohama, Japan, aboard a 30-foot schooner. Adventurers are Jack Packard, 30, left, owner and skipper, his Australian fiancée, Paula Borge, 25, and Reuters correspondent William Thomas, 35. (AP Photos.)

Power Pact Closer

OTTAWA (CP)—Justice Minister Fleming said Monday night his four-hour conference Monday with Premier Bennett at a brief press conference "quite satisfactory progress" on the Columbia River power development.

"We've never been closer together," chimed in Mr. Bennett at a brief press conference following their private meeting, which included a number of federal officials as well.

NO DETAILS

However, neither Mr. Fleming nor Mr. Bennett would go into details of the points under discussion. They said they plan a further "exchange" before Parliament meets Sept. 27.

Canada has signed a treaty with the United States for development of the power potential of the international river but the treaty has not yet been ratified by Parliament pending agreement between Ottawa and the B.C. government on sale of downstream power benefits and financing of the $300,000,000 project.

New Test Ban Plan Tripped by Russia

GENEVA (Reuters)—An "epochal step" by the West toward an agreement on a nuclear test ban ran into solid Soviet resistance Monday—but there was a glimmer of hope for a partial accord.

American delegate Arthur Dean, in presenting two Western draft treaties to the 17-nation disarmament conference this morning, announced that Britain and the United States "have made a determined, far-reaching and epochal step toward reaching agreement in the interest of mankind."

CALLS FOR BAN

One treaty called for a ban on all nuclear tests. Soviet delegate Vasily Kuznetsov rejected it as "flatly." Western sources said—on the grounds that it provided for international inspection on Soviet territory.

The second treaty, providing for a ban on all but hard-to-detect underground tests, drew a cool response from Kuznetsov. He stressed, however, that his remarks were preliminary and he would study the document further.

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker says that if Russia were sincere in wanting a nuclear test ban the British and American proposal made in Geneva Monday should have been acceptable.

He told reporters Monday that Britain and the United States in their proposal "went far beyond that which could have been anticipated a year or two ago."

Algerian Women:

Give Us Bread And Freedom!

ALGIERS (AP)—Several hundred veiled Moslem women marched through the streets of Algiers Monday, clamoring for bread and freedom from the capital's military rulers.

Some were accompanied by children as they spilled out of the ancient casbah, carrying banners and chanting slogans.

Troops of the guerrilla army controlling the Algiers military zone made no attempt to disrupt the demonstration, which underlined the rising anger of Algeria's hungry masses.

FORM COMMITTEE

To the west, military leaders rallied to the support of Ahmed Ben Bella and appealed to the people to form vigilance committees against the guerrilla chiefs in Algiers.

The 20,000-man guerrilla army here has forced Ben Bella to abandon, at least temporarily, efforts to function as a leader in Algiers, in effect veiling his bid to form a central Algerian government in the capital.

BUREAU CRIPPLED

His political bureau, thus crippled, announced last Saturday that it could no longer function here. The prepared text of its announcement, the bureau said it could no longer "function usefully" because of guerrilla army pressures. When bureau spokesman Mohammed Khider read the announcement to reporters, he conspicuously omitted the word "usefully."

IRRESPONSIBLE ACTS

The general staff of the 65,000-man regular army, based at Oran in western Algeria, the city to which Ben Bella and most of his political bureau retired, accused guerrillas in this central Algerian city of "irresponsible acts obstructing the rebirth of the state."

It called Ben Bella's political bureau—a seven-man body which failed to get off the ground—the nation's "only legitimate authority."

SEEK SUPPORT

It seemed obvious to officials of various defunct ministries in Algiers that Ben Bella was attempting to muster decisive military support in western Algeria.

So far, all Algerian military and civilian leaders have stressed the desperate need to avert bloodshed.

Danger Now Past In Smallpox Scare

TORONTO (CP)—Most people who may have come in contact with smallpox victim James William Orr, 14, now are past the danger of infection, health officials said Monday.

She'd Trade Baby For Family Home

DERBY, England (Reuters)—Mrs. Jean Rook, a mother of six, Monday offered to give away her month-old baby in exchange for a house.

Mrs. Rook, baby Jacqueline and her five other children, have been staying at a city welfare home here and her unemployed husband, Jim, 35, at a Salvation

Army men's hostel, since they were evicted from their low-rent council home.

"The family should stick together and we have tramped the streets to get a home," said Mrs. Rook. "Now in desperation we have made this decision. We love the baby very much, but we have no alternative."

$1,000,000 Tornado In Saskatchewan Rips Farms Apart

EARL GREY, Sask. (CP)—A violent tornado early Monday tore through an area three miles wide and 30 miles long in south-central Saskatchewan, scattering granaries, trees and crops.

Damage was estimated at between $500,000 and $1,000,000.

MORE THAN 100 With winds reported at more than 100 miles an hour, the funnel of wind hit first at the farm of Ernest Foster, about seven miles north of this farming community and about 50 miles north of Regina.

In the main area, nearly all granaries were demolished. At the Foster farm, the only buildings intact were the house and a garage and these were damaged.

FIVE DESTROYED

A large barn was crumpled around the hay stored in the loft. Five granaries were completely destroyed.

The funnel swept across the farm lands draping swathed grain across fences and telephone lines.

It's Winter In Alberta

CALGARY (CP)—Winter made a sneak attack on Alberta during the weekend. Pincher Creek yesterday morning reported a low of 32 degrees. Kimberley in B.C. also had a 32 reading yesterday.

Snow fell in the Banff area. At Bow Summit, 6,500 feet above sea level on the Banff-Jasper Highway, between two and five inches of snow was reported.

Continuing east, the wind hit the Alex Buchan farm, ripping off the end of a large barn.

Six miles north of the wind storm, a hail storm hit in an identical area, 30 miles long and three miles wide, causing 35 to 100 per cent damage to all crops.

Interpreting the News

Red Arms in Cuba Real Worry to U.S.

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The United States is deeply perturbed by the reported Soviet arms buildup in Cuba. While the situation has not yet become "intolerable," there is every indication that Cuban-American relations will worsen.

The immediate worry in American quarters is not that the reinforced Communist structure on the Caribbean island will directly endanger the U.S., but it will assist and prolong the Fidel Castro regime and help to spread its influence in Latin America.

At the same time there is concern over the limited success of the Alliance-for-Progress aid program, at raising living standards throughout Latin America. The 10-year, $20,000,000,000 program, in which the U.S. foots half the bill, has accomplished little in its first year.

Inflation and unemployment, entrenched reaction and revolutionary turmoil have played havoc with pledges of many Latin American countries to reform government administration and taxation systems.

Many Latin American officials, in turn, have blamed U.S. alliance officials for failing to understand their diverse problems.

Economically, the Castro regime may be faring no better than some of the other impoverished countries. But Soviet aid may veil the true state of Cuban industry and the battalions of "technicians" Castro is reported to be importing from the Soviet bloc may help to strangle any major show of restlessness among the Cuban citizens.

The stronger Castro becomes the more difficult it will be to dislodge him.

Uniformity Needed

PROVINCIAL regulation of air pollution is suggested in a resolution to be considered at the convention of the Union of British Columbia Municipalities next month. The proposal has much to commend it, and could well be supported by delegates from the councils of Vancouver Island.

Existing law permits but does not oblige municipalities to pass bylaws governing air pollution within their boundaries. The wavering application of two such bylaws successively in Victoria over the last decade is illustrative of two flaws in this system.

One is that the downwind sufferers from smoke are not necessarily all within the confines of the municipality where the smoke is produced. In Victoria's case for instance residents of close-in parts of Saanich get their share of city mill-district smoke without an opportunity to do anything about it but grumble; they can apply no effective political pressure.

The second and more important flaw, at the root of Victoria's aldermanic indecision over a long period, is that lack of uniformity of control throughout the province presents the danger that industrial plants facing tight and expensive restriction in one locality will move to another where there is little or no control.

This has been the theme through years of council blowing hot and cold on smoke abatement in Victoria—that the city cannot afford to lose any of its limited amount of industry. It is unfair now, incidentally, to imply that the smoke inspector has been unduly partial to industry when he has been the agent of a council and a committee with this overriding and often-expressed fear.

Victoria, it is to be hoped, will soon have an amended and effective bylaw, properly enforced. But much to be preferred would be a law establishing the same degree of protection throughout the province.

Let's Do It

ON FEBRUARY 13 of this year a campaign was launched to raise the sum of $350,000 by public donations to enable St. Joseph's Hospital to provide the additional beds and services required to meet the needs of the growing population of Greater Victoria.

At that time officials of the drive and their many voluntary workers, drawn from every section of the community, confidently expected the target to be reached within six weeks.

Today—six months later—the fund stands short of its objective by $85,000.

In an effort to meet the shortfall a special appeal has gone out to all Greater Victorians asking them to send their personal donations to the hospital by mail—care of Box 603, Victoria—within the next ten days.

For more than 100 years the Sisters of St. Ann have selflessly served this community and there are today few families here who have not benefited directly or indirectly through the work and services they and the hospital they founded have provided.

In this centennial year it would be a fitting way for all of us who reside in this southern portion of Vancouver Island to say "thank you" to them if we picked up the tab for the remaining $85,000 in the coming week.

Let's do it.

Party Before Country

EARLY on Mr. Pearson said he would support the government if its policies appeared to be for the country's benefit; now he has changed his tune. He wants it out of office as soon as possible.

Some of this chameleon attitude may be laid to partisan tactics that seek to take advantage of the Liberal and NDP position, which is to hold back until the government has shown its legislative hand. In this way he can demand an immediate election while believing it won't come about sooner than his party is ready for it.

The sincerity of his utterances is thus to be questioned.

The Liberal leader has gone out of his way to indict both the Liberal and NDP chieftains for joining in condemnation of the Diefenbaker government but now "looking for ways of keeping the government in office."

Mr. T. C. Douglas has answered with words that should be noted across the country, viz:

"For any public man or any political party to say in advance that they will vote against the government and will vote against the speech from the throne without even waiting to see what is in it seems to be the very essence of irresponsibility and to be replacing statesmanship with political partisanship."

That is a statement that lifts Mr. Douglas far beyond the status of Mr. Pearson.

Gone are the days when the latter was Canada's golden boy of the diplomatic realm, the statesman who won renown for his unbiased approach to pressing international problems. Now he is but a domestic office-seeking politician, "agin" the government before he knows what to be against when Parliament meets.

He puts his party before country, as Mr. Douglas has so plainly said.

Flying Feet

THE LIONS may give Vancouver its ups and downs but Harry Jerome gives his home town nothing but delight. He carries the mantle of Percy Williams, whose Olympic glory three decades ago set all eyes on the mainland city, to new heights.

On Saturday the flying feet of this young man bore him to the coveted world record of 9.2 seconds for 100 yards. This he equalled in brilliant style, adding it to his world mark in 100 metres.

The North Vancouver boy—he is little else—has been among the best living sprinters for the past year or two, and seemingly he is now at the peak of his perfection. He should return from the Empire Games in Australia this winter with one or more gold medals to Canadian credit. And if he holds his form an Olympic triumph should follow two years hence.

Meanwhile he does Vancouver and his country proud in a realm where prestige is at a premium.

"Dad! Mum says come back and scratch out what you wrote in the Visitors' Book at once!"

Thinking Aloud

... of shoes, and ships, and sealing wax ...

By TOM TAYLOR

SIR Alan Herbert, the author of "Holy Deadlock" and a bright spark in the British scene asks: "What is the point of putting a man on the moon?"

When I read that I thought him a man after my own heart because inwardly I have wondered the same thing but haven't spoken out lest I be thought an ignoramus. After all what was the point in getting to the top of Mount Everest?

Nobody knows for sure for no one has been there yet and Russian scientists now say the moon isn't so deep in dust that a compass will sink and be smothered, but I shouldn't imagine it will turn out to be a pastoral paradise. Sir Alan seems to be in no doubt for unequivocally he declares that no one who goes there will be able to lead a normal life.

Which seems a pretty fair guess although one is puzzled sometimes as to what is a normal life.

It depends so much on the individual, as the Everest climbers affirmed when they ventured because the mountain was "there."

Curiously and the questing spirit of man. That is the main answer given to Sir Alan by another well known contemporary, Peter Scott, whom I take to be the son of the Antarctic's famous Capt. Scott and a venturesome chap of the open air himself.

He declares that a man in the moon is not the final objective, but only a milestone on the way to more distant parts of the solar system where men may ultimately be able to live successfully and contentedly. The doubting half of me emerges to suspect that if man can't live happily on earth he has no chance of doing so on some so far fantastic planet as ours too good.

And supposing there to be some civilized creatures already up there in the planetary orbits they might conceivably have immigration quotas. If they can see what's going on down below they might conclude it safer to put up the bars.

But the core of the matter, as Mr. Scott sees it and I fancy he is right, is that the unknown has always been a challenge to man. That is why the latter has opened up a Pandora's box all over the globe as well as conferring benefits en route. Curiously they may kill the cat, but it has to kill all its nine lives, and man takes a lot of killing when it comes to following his urge for exploration.

As a sideline, too, as Mr. Scott points out, unrelated discoveries when one line of scientific endeavor is pursued often turn out to be the real blessings. It is possibly the by-products and accidental finds that have changed human ways more than anything else. Even if a man never gets to the moon, it is argued, his attempts to will be a stepping-stone to new discoveries in many sciences.

I find a little more difficulty in accepting that solar search is "a proper aspiration of man in his perpetual quest for truth." This moment of truth is being applied to all manner of things these days and it leaves one in a dither about truth, per se. A lot more searching for truth remains yet to be done on earth, if we must talk about truth.

One thought I did find comforting, however: that even if solar exploration is so expensive as to leave you breathless a space-race is less destructive than a world war.

So long as one doesn't lead to the other, that is.

Order Changes in a Decade

India's Vanishing Aristocracy

By BALEAM TANDON
from New Delhi

SOME Indians who have grown to middle age during the last decade talk nostalgically of the old order with its well-organized scheme of things, including a clear-cut class system which, if it had the disadvantage of keeping millions in poverty, at least produced a few who had leisure and money and knew how to live.

In the business there are still some who will readily recount anecdotes of the indulgent life of the local landlords and princes: of the great feasts in ancient mansions, revelry with dancing girls, lavish charity and a plenitude of money despite spending on a fabulous scale. A prize in their position of quality, an abhorrence of labor as a means of livelihood and a strict code of honor marked India's aristocracy.

But the mansion walls have grown mossy, and a few of the ancient families have the money, or care to fight the socialist pattern of society which Mr. Nehru and the Congress Party have not in mind. Nevertheless, with their disdain for labor, few of the old landlords want for a living. Most of them are content to sit up their reserves, selling property to pay off taxes, and living on a shrinking income.

Few have invested capital in industry. It is commonplace to hear their plaintive cry for the return of the old days and a curse on India's new rulers.

To an outsider it may seem strange that an institution so widely and deeply accepted has vanished in just over a decade. This is best explained by the curious growth and character of the Indian aristocracy, which was divided into two distinct classes: the landlords with vast country estates controlled by hereditary rulers, and the princes of the land, the Indian equivalent of Britain's country squires, who owned their farms by buying more land. Most of them lived in the cities, invested in real estate and banking, managed their lands through agents, and paid only perfunctory visits.

The growth of organized credit facilities had made heavy inroads into their incomes from banking in the last three decades, and their position was far from healthy before independence. But the mortal blow was the government's land reform program during the early 1950s. This program rescinded hereditary land titles, set ceilings on holdings and granted tenants of long standing the ownership rights of the land they tilled.

The landlords were granted compensation in the form of bonds redeemable over a 25-year period. But few of them were trained in farming and thus capable of profitably exploiting the acreage within the permissible ceiling. Most of the holdings they possessed have been sold to secure cash with the bonds circulating in the share market. Real estate values have greatly appreciated, but rentals in most towns, excepting the larger ones, have not, and there is, in any case, a degree of control. The landed aristocracy has thus been left with an income that hardly suffices for their large families, let alone living on a luxurious scale.

The princely families of some 550 states that existed during the Raj have fared somewhat better. By signing a covenant during the early years of independence they surrendered their substantial feudal powers for annuities commensurate with the size and status of their territories.

The Nizam of Hyderabad receives an annual sum of over $200,000; half-a-dozen others, such as the Maharajahs of Gwalior, Jaipur, Mysore, Patiala and Baroda get more than $100,000. Most of the 550, however, were small princelings—230 of them in Saurashtra on the west coast—and they get between $170 and $5,000. All these incomes are tax-free. The Indian Exchequer pays out around $4,000,000 in annuities.

The annuity, however, is no index to what a former ruler receives personally. Every ruler has hordes of relatives for whose maintenance he is responsible, in addition to an army of retainers. The Nizam of Hyderabad has had to cut his household to a quarter of its former size, disown an extravagant son, and surrender superfluous palaces to the government.

Another maharajah whose father maintained a sizeable harem and had several wives earned the wrath of his stepbrothers when he gave them notice to quit his palaces. The pattern has been repeated in all states.

Most of the princes have disposed of property, garages and stables. Fleets of Rolls-Royce limousines have been auctioned for a song. Today a maharajah is more likely to be seen in an old Ford or a sturdy Jeep.

Except for a few, the princes have shown more resilience than the landlords. The re-proving hand of British Residencies stood them in good stead. Several with a public school background have entered the armed forces, the foreign service and other branches of the civil service. Some have gone into politics. Others have been elected to Parliament early this year.

One is a deputy minister and

Power for Bureaucracy

By OTTO VON HARSBURG

FOR a few weeks informed quarters have talked of the revision of certain paragraphs contained in the UN charter. Such ideas are propounded by Americans, the Soviets and the Afro-Asians. It is likely that practical proposals will be submitted when the General Assembly convenes in the fall.

Genuine progress on the structural problems seems unlikely. The disagreement between the big powers will block the Security Council. After a sharp verbal clash a committee will be appointed—a standard funeral ceremony. On the other hand there is a point on which further discussions are likely: the financing of the organization.

The UN's expenses rise continuously. Due to the administration of new members, military interventions and widening aid programs the organization lives well beyond its means. The sale of UN bonds, which the borrower obviously is unable to repay, has been the public admission of bankruptcy.

Today the UN budget receives contributions from individual states. These are inadequate but cannot be substantially increased, since many governments are well behind in their dues. It is hence allegedly planned to give the organization autonomous financial means. There is talk either of taxes on international mails and passports, or else of the establishment of exclusive UN exploitation rights in certain parts of the world—the sea, polar regions or outer space.

These proposals seem dangerous. The UN has not the necessary capital to develop the sea or the Arctic. It is hard to see what could be gained in outer space. As as the Nizam of Hyderabad, who tends to lead the frugal life of a recluse, nursing his billions reputedly stacked in underground vaults in his palace. A minority still haunts the pleasure spots of Europe, and a dozen closely study form at the race tracks of Bombay, Calcutta and Madras. But all of them appear aware that time is catching up; according to the covenant, their sons and heirs will get only half the annual sum they receive, and the next generation half of that again.

The aristocracy has fallen victim to India's political and economic progress. The same process is, however, throwing up a new class of wealthy Indians, the contractors, industrialists and businessmen. Still loud in their ways by the old standards, they are slowly learning to acquire and appreciate the good things of life—the hallmark of the aristocrat.

There are exceptions, such

The Packback

Parent Training

By GREGORY CLARK

AT lunch, one of our party, a chance to pick up a little free consultation, was pleased to discover that one of us was a pediatrician, which is the fancy word for baby specialist.

"How," he asked, "do you train your toddlers not to teach things? How do you teach a two or three year old to leave things alone?"

"You don't," said the doctor. "You train yourself not to leave things within reach of infants. Child training, in the early stages, is almost entirely a matter of parent training. If toddlers are always in trouble, grabbing and pulling and smashing things, and occasionally getting hurt in the process, the fault lies in poorly trained parents."

He admitted, of course, that child training has to begin at an early age. But thanks to the instillative attentiveness of infancy, careful parents are more likely to have careful children than the sort of scatter-brained parents who, rather than train themselves, suppose that training consists of uttering cries and yelling "don't" all day long.

A bill outlawing slavery in the British Empire was passed 129 years ago today—in 1833.

The bill, effective Aug. 1, 1834, freed 700,000 slaves at cost of $20,000,000. Slavery had been abolished in Britain in 1772, and foreign slave trade was suppressed in 1807.

1609—Explorer Henry Hudson discovered Delaware Bay and the Delaware River.

1949—The Chinese Communists announced establishment of a "People's Government" in Manchuria.

Washington Calling

Rough Road

By MARQUIS CHILDR

TIGHTENED up by the foreign relations committee, the measure authorizing President Kennedy to purchase United Nations bonds is coming up for action by the House. The road has been long and rough and the ending is still uncertain as the UN comes close to exhausting its credit to finance peace-keeping activities in The Congo and in Suez.

Thanks in no small part to Minority Leader Everett McKinley Dirksen, the bill was passed by the Senate by a vote of 70 to 22 nearly five months ago. As originally put forward, the measure provided for purchase outright of $25,000,000 in UN bonds, with the president authorized to advance another $75,000,000 to match what other UN nations put up. Dirksen and Majority Leader Mike Mansfield joined in a substitute, leaving the method, rate and duration of the financing up to the president in the full $100,000,000.

As revised by the House committee, the bill specifies that bonds may be bought only in amounts matching other purchases. For several reasons, administration officials have not been too concerned about this provision.

In the first place, 19 countries have already put up $27,750,000. On this list are members such as Ireland and Sweden that have contributed manpower for the perilous Congo operation. In addition, another 31 member nations have pledged $45,268,000. No one doubts that sooner or later the total will be close to the $100,000,000 mark.

But another reason why the House version is considered even preferable to the Senate bill comes down to the balance of power in the UN and the attitude toward the United States in the world organization. With the U.S. paying so large a share of the bill, some members, and particularly the smaller and newly independent states, have looked on Uncle Sam as an easy touch who could always be counted on to pick up the tab.

While failing to assume their share of responsibility, they nevertheless reserved the right to put the blame on the United States for any failing. This attitude, together with the rapidly swollen membership list and each nation having one vote in the General Assembly, helps to explain the opposition to the UN that has been especially vocal on the extreme right. By putting the loan on a matching basis all members will be held responsible for a share of the burden.

Defeat of the administration proposal would be considered a repudiation, and the UN chief American delegate, Adlai Stevenson, who has taken a shrewd and realistic approach to the tangle of power politics in the world organization, has made it clear in testimony to Congressional committees that this would play directly into the hands of Moscow and the Communist bloc.

The Soviets have been determined to block the UN in The Congo, where repeatedly the blue-helmeted force has prevented a complete breakdown of any semblance of law and order. Such a breakdown would serve perfectly the ends of Communism, since if a large-scale war did not come out of chaos, it would nevertheless foreclose any hope of working out a relationship between European economic interests and the hard-headed government of Cyrille Adoula.

Widespread support for the UN bond bill has been expressed in a variety of ways. The American Legion has sent a copy of its supporting resolution to every member of the House. The United States Chamber of Commerce has given it vigorous backing.

Needless to say, the American Association for the United Nations and other groups that actively promote the UN are hard at work. Every public opinion poll shows popular backing for the world organization over a wide spectrum. Often in the recent past 90 per cent or more of the sample has been recorded in favor of the United States remaining in the UN and working through it for world order.

Rep. Walter Judd of Minnesota, along with northern Republicans such as John Lindsay of New York and Peter Frelinghuysen of New Jersey, are among those actively backing the bond bill. The hope is to enlist as many Republicans as possible for a stable showing of strength behind the measure.

The hardcore opposition—and it may prove larger than anyone suspects—has puzzled the advocates of the measure. It seems to arise from a nationalism, a go-it-alone psychology that curiously resembles the yeasty, hypersensitive attitude of the new UN members from Asia and Africa.

Only Election Can Halt Tory Talks

OTTAWA (CP) — A general meeting of the Progressive Conservative party will be held in January—barring a winter election in the meantime—and new impetus will be given to party organization, it was decided Monday at a meeting of party executives.

The meeting, drawing 1,500 delegates to Ottawa and perhaps as many more observers, is scheduled for Jan. 18 and 19.

Ancient Totems

Totem poles 90 to 100 years old shipped to Thunderbird Park recently from Kitwano Indian village 100 miles north of Prince Rupert are examined by New York tourists Jim Vento and Cathy Suraci. Replicas will be carved and sent back to village and originals will be displayed indoors at UBC.

Two Held in Seattle In Canadian Fraud

WASHINGTON (CP)—Two men accused by the U.S. government of having participated in a $7,000,000 Canadian nickel stock fraud were arrested in Seattle and will face trial in New Hampshire, the Securities and Exchange Commission said Monday.

Arrested and released on $15,000 bail each were Joseph Oliver Moss of Vancouver and Allen Roberts, a U.S. citizen, of Omaha, Neb., and St. Stephen, N.B.

Union 'Justified'

TORONTO (CP) — Labor chief Hal C. Banks stoutly insisted Monday—under federal shipping inquiry questioning—that his maverick Seafarers International Union of Canada is justified in encouraging American picketing of Canadian vessels in American ports.

He denied suggestions that his union has taken the law into its own hands or that he could easily have the American picketing called off.

KNUCKLE-RAPPING

He drew some hard knuckle-rapping from time to time from Mr. Justice T. G. Norris of British Columbia, the one-man board of inquiry appointed to delve into the inter-union rivalry that has plagued the shipping industry on the Great Lakes and St. Lawrence Seaway.

He was part of a continued attempt to shed light on the series of picketings, boycotts and harassment in American ports that have greeted vessels of the Upper Lakes Shipping Company.

Commission counsel Charles Dublin said:

"I suggest you are getting American trade unions, in which you have a great deal of influence, to get action which might very well be illegal in Canada."

"Not true," said Mr. Banks. Mr. Banks was unwilling to concede that by the other side of the coin, ships manned by SIU hands could properly be picketed in American ports until the SIU abandoned those ships.

NOTED BY NORRIS

"It depends on whose ox is gored," noted Mr. Justice Norris.

Banks said it would not be easy for him personally to end the American picketing.

The Canadian SIU is an autonomous affiliate of the SIU of North America, it was testified.

LETTERS to the Editor

To be considered for publication in whole or in part letters must be on subjects of general interest, not more than 200 words in length, and, if signed with a pen-name, must be accompanied by the writer's name and address.

The article on skylarks by F. Talbot Smith in Sunday's Colonist will be interesting to many people, as the birds of Victoria are fortunate in having a host of friends, who put up nesting houses for them, have a bird bath in their gardens, and, most of all, put feed out regularly.

In spite of all this care our records over the years show that in the case of many species, their numbers are diminishing.

The skylark, happily enough, is one of the few increasing as they gradually extend their territory. True they have been forced from their original stronghold on Lansdowne field, due to building pressures, and now from Finerty Road to make way for the university buildings, but they can now be found through the length of Saanich, and have even found their way west to the fields above Mill Bay and east to Sidney Island.

Their numbers, which 15 years ago were down to a few dozen, have risen to almost 700 in Saanich, according to a census taken last winter by members of the Victoria Natural History Society, due principally to a series of mild winters.

Source of Annoyance

The present discourse, by certain aldermen in Saanich and Victoria, on the presumed creation of a potential alum area in the Burnside Garden Village is a source of annoyance to those families already living there.

Not only do the views of these unilluminated spokesmen reflect upon the workmanship and labor of those people who have worked on this project, but also they tend to jeopardize the social standing, present and future, of tenants who have been attracted to this development.

If they must point their finger to alum conditions, why not undertake the cleanup of our downtown area. Through a misconception of what is beautiful and what is ugly, words such as "charm," "Old Country flavor," and "appealing" are used to describe matronly, morbid buildings which offend the eye.

What the antagonists of this family living plan see is a project that is only half completed. In reality it is the only answer, in Victoria, to the family with children who are seeking a decent place to rent. These critics do not welcome progress, they seek to delay and frustrate.

N. R. MILES,
3570 Tillicum Road.

Harming the Province

The Daily Colonist and the city of Victoria council are to be commended on the fact that they refused to downgrade the credit of their province. However the city council of Vancouver and one of their newspapers, with the help of the leader of the Liberal opposition, did not have any scruples about fouling their own nest.

Happily the attempt was a failure and let us hope they will have learned the lesson that what harms the province harms all its citizens regardless of their political leanings.

If Britain Joins

Would it not be a good thing if the visiting MPs from Britain were to tell us how they propose to meet the loss of sovereignty which must eventually if Britain joins the European Economic Community, and thereby lose her identity? The Throne is just as important to us as to the Old Country, and any threat to it is a threat to the Commonwealth, which we have every right and need to oppose with all our might.

If the British Throne goes, the Commonwealth goes, and we with it.

E. W. ABRAHAM.

Fund for the Quads

A truly marvelous event happened in Vancouver recently, the birth of four healthy babies to one mother, and at a time when the nation is full of concern about babies generally, this should be received with feelings of thankfulness by us all, young and older parents alike who may have helped with nursery chores for their own baby boy or girl sometime. Such an event would present problems even for a wealthy family from the few details given by the press. It is a fair bet that this near-miracle birth was closer to a calamity for this little mother and father and I would suggest that the people of British Columbia take a personal interest in promoting and supporting a fund to relieve the immediate anxiety of the parents and to assist the future care of this wonderful little family.

Ontario had its quints. British Columbia should be equally proud.

Mr. Editor, may I suggest that movement be organized by various community groups or a particular group, to start this fund on behalf of this remarkable family and may I add, someone must start, then let us carry on together.

NICKEL IN WORLD MARKETS...JOBS FOR CANADIANS

How Canadian Nickel helps grow much needed food in India

Changes are coming fast in India, where the soil is overworked and weary. These changes include irrigation, modern farm equipment, and plants to produce nitrogen fertilizers. And Canadian nickel is helping. Nickel steels to withstand hard wear in modern farm machinery. Nickel alloys to resist corrosive effects of hot ammonium nitrate solutions used in the manufacture of fertilizers. Canadian nickel is helping in similar ways all over the world. The growth of nickel markets at home and abroad helps strengthen Canada's economy and helps provide more jobs for Canadians.

No Money Trouble For Columbia, If...

By HARRY YOUNG
(Colony Business Editor)

If Premier Bennett can back from Ottawa with the assurance that the federal government will not oppose the export of electrical power to the U.S. under the terms of the Columbia River Treaty, no further delay in getting to grips with the hydro-electricity of the river is expected.

Robert Bonner, B.C. trade minister and attorney-general, said at the weekend that as soon as that assurance is given by Ottawa there will be no difficulty in raising the necessary capital in the U.S. for the $300,000,000 job.

Mr. Bonner added that if Ottawa rejects the issue of export sales British Columbia could not hope to use enough electricity to make the scheme a paying one for many years.

The U.S. then the servicing and the redemption of the capital required would be paid for out of income received from U.S. electrical consumers.

BAROMETER RISING

It is strange how financial opinions change. When I left these parts on holiday three weeks ago, investment people were wondering how the Pacific Great Eastern Railway could hope to refund its $33,600,000 parity bonds maturing on Sept. 15 in what was described as "an unfavorable atmosphere."

Since then the predicted run on the various B.C. parity bonds has failed to materialize, and day interest rates have dropped from 5 1/2 per cent to 3 per cent.

As a result the atmosphere has suddenly become "brighter."

OIL LANDS FOR SALE

Ten parcels of crown reserve lands in popular oil and gas areas of northern B.C. are being offered for sale at Victoria, Sept. 27.

The tenders for these parcels include obligations to complete a drilling program within 18 months.

Lands being offered include one parcel in the Ketchikan Lake natural gas area in the north-eastern part of the province.

Net earnings of Laurendeau Financial Corporation for the year ended June 30 were $2,361,469, up 35 per cent from $1,751,913 in the previous year.

Public Pleased

The new PGE offering of 5 1/2 per cent parity bonds on a four-year-maturity basis has apparently pleased the investing public.

Instead of rushing to sell B.C. parity bonds, investment dealers say that orders are coming in fast for the new bonds, and although no figures of sales are yet available, it is believed that a complete rollover, or an even bigger issue than the old one, may be achieved.

"We are not only getting orders for conversions, but a considerable amount of new money is being offered as well," said a local dealer.

Market Essential

He said that if the Columbia was to be developed it had to be on the assurance that a market would be found for its electrical generation.

"That cannot happen if the market is confined to Canada, and under those circumstances financing of the project would be next to impossible," he said.

Mr. Bonner added that if the surplus electricity was sold in

Ray, Janet Win Singles

Ray Aldeguer and Janet Todd won singles championships Sunday in the annual Victoria Lawn Tennis and Badminton Club handicap tennis tournament.

Aldeguer beat Ted Espley, 5-7, 6-3, 8-6, and teamed with junior Chris Robbins to beat Alex Coffey and Espley, 6-3, 6-4, in the men's doubles final.

Janet Todd beat Dee Lim, 5-7, 6-2, 6-3, for the women's singles, and Elsie Radford and Rhoda Duncan downed Bernie Parrish and Libby Boak in the women's doubles. Robbins and Elsie Radford defeated Rhoda Duncan and George Golds, 6-2, 4-6, 6-1, in mixed doubles.

THE PALMER METHOD

SWING THE CLUBHEAD

A most common error among novice golfers is the mistake of picking up the clubhead at the beginning of the backswing.

This premature cocking of the wrist takes the body right out of the shot, for a person swinging in this manner will not be able to pivot correctly. They'll use only the hands and arms.

For as long as possible, the left arm and club shaft should form a straight line, as illustrated.

By keeping the wrist passive, or unbroken, the golfer will be able to use his body and all of its power in the shot. Don't worry about your wrist-break. If you start out this way, they'll break at the right time.

Goalie Keeps Rocks in Series

Mason Jars Vancouver

Mike Mason won't be around for the Minto Cup final, but he's doing his level best to make sure his Junior Shamrock teammates make the grade.

Mason played his finest game of the season Sunday in Vancouver, making 20 saves as Shamrocks beat South Vancouver Legion, 12-6, to tie the best-of-five B.C. junior series at two games each.

Final game will be played tonight at 8:30 at Memorial Arena, and the winner gets to play in the Minto Cup final against the eastern Canadian champions.

JOINS MOUNTIES

That's a series Mason will miss, even if the rest of the Shamrocks get there. Mason has joined the RCMP, and is due to be called in just before the Canadian final. If Shamrocks win the B.C. playoff, they will pick up a goalie from one of the other teams.

Shamrocks, who won the opener then lost two in a row to South Vancouver, were a different team Sunday. They outshouted the mainland team, refused to panic when they fell behind 2-0, and scored seven goals in the final quarter before South Vancouver finally beat Mason in the last minute.

SCORES FOUR

Mason wasn't the only star. Bill Munroe, checked by two men throughout, scored four goals and set up three more.

In four games, he has scored 11 goals and assisted on eight for 19 points.

Glen Vickers, held in check for the last two games, scored three goals. Bill Spotswood got two, and Mel Spotswood, Ray

Beech and Dave Collett got the others.

A total of 68 minutes in penalties was handed out in a rough-and-tumble game. Munroe and Les Glover of Legion drew majors for fighting and

Bill Spotswood, Beech and Bill

Robinson drew 10 minutes

each for joining in.

"Okay, you knew I didn't drink when you married me. Make the best of a bad situation."

"It isn't just that you don't drink," she says, tears coming to her eyes.

"But why do you have to go around and tell everyone you don't drink a one either?"

Claus Sebastian McTavish

Douglas Grandson Dies After Pioneers' Party

By JAMES E. NEHRITT

Claus Sebastian McTavish, 78, who was born in Victoria's historic Helmcken House, now a museum, died suddenly Saturday evening.

In the afternoon he had attended Victoria Centennial Society's tea in the grounds of old Craigflower Schoolhouse, and had then gone to dinner at the Plowright Road home of his brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Duncan D. McTavish. Later, walking with his brother to the View Royal Garden Show, he collapsed and died within a few minutes.

HELMCKEN HOUSE

Mr. McTavish was great-grandson of Sir James Douglas, founder of Victoria and father of British Columbia, and grandson of Dr. John Sebastian Helmcken, long-time Mr. Speaker of colonial legislatures. His mother was Amy Helmcken, the eldest Douglas grandchild, and his father, G. A. McTavish, prominent in horticultural circles in Victoria and Saanich.

C. S. McTavish was brought up on a Saanich farm, and later assisted his father and Dr. Helmcken in operation of the Inverlavish Nurseries facing Beacon Hill Park, where the family home was located. For a time he tried his hand in the electrical business, and helped outline the legislative buildings in lights.

CLOSE TO EARTH

But mostly his life was spent close to the earth. For some years he farmed on Saanich's McTavish Road, named for his father. Latterly he had lived on the Towner Park Road. A kindly gentle man, he never married, and was a universal favorite among members of the vast Douglas clan.

At the Craigflower tea on Saturday he had his last picture taken, with his great-niece, 12-year-old Miss Elizabeth Pearce. He said he had a wonderful time, meeting so many people he had not seen in years.

He was the centre of a family group—his brother Duncan, his sister, Dorothy, Mrs. Claire Spence Downing, who had come from her West Vancouver home for the pioneers' party, and his cousins, Mr. and Mrs. D. B. F. Bullen.

He leaves another sister, Mrs. Rita McTavish Hughes, who lives in the house built in 1880 by her grandmother McTavish.

Industry Here To Talk

Manufacturers, middlemen and distributors in the United States electronic industry are meeting in Victoria this week.

Meeting at the Empress Hotel through tomorrow are about 120 representatives of electronics equipment manufacturers from throughout the United States and 70 representatives of distributors from Washington State, Oregon, Montana and Idaho.

CONFERENCE HOST

Host for the conference is the Cascade chapter of the Electronics Representatives Association.

The conference, held every two years, began Saturday at Seattle. Delegates came to Victoria yesterday.

ATTRACTIVE

A representative said Victoria was chosen because it is attractive and because it is removed from the day-to-day business scene. "In Seattle some guy would always be ducking out to try to scare up a couple of orders."

Those at the conference are dealing with electronic parts for eventual use in home radio and TV, in industry and in military projects.

Local Girl PNE Champ

A 14-year-old Esquimalt girl has won a first prize at the Pacific National Exhibition in Vancouver for paintings and a pen sketch of ranch life.

Penny Butt of 483 Lamson won first prize in the juvenile—18 and under—artwork contest against entries from throughout B.C. in the hobby and craft show.

Penny, a student at Esquimalt Senior High who turned 14 at the end of July after she had completed the watercolors and pen sketch, won second place in the competition in a previous year.

Other Vancouver Island winners were Mrs. L. Bate, Nanaimo, who earned a second in sewing and handwork, children's toys and rugs, and J. H. McEwen, 4141 Gillette, Victoria, who earned a third in the same division.

Ball or nib?

Which will you take back to school this year?

There are still people who frown on ballpoints. They claim that they skip and skid. Obviously they've never been to school with a Parker Jotter. It writes with a clean, decisive line. Of course, there are bound to be times when you need a regular pen—a good time for the Parker 45. Its 14k gold nib glides so smoothly, it restores your pride in the way you write. Ball or nib, you write better with a Parker. (It's a good idea to go back to school with both!)

The Parker T-Ball Jotter

The Parker Jotter isn't "just another ballpoint"—it's a precisely engineered writing instrument. Its famous T-Ball tip has thousands of little grippers that hold the paper like a good tire holds the road—you write beautifully without bearing down.

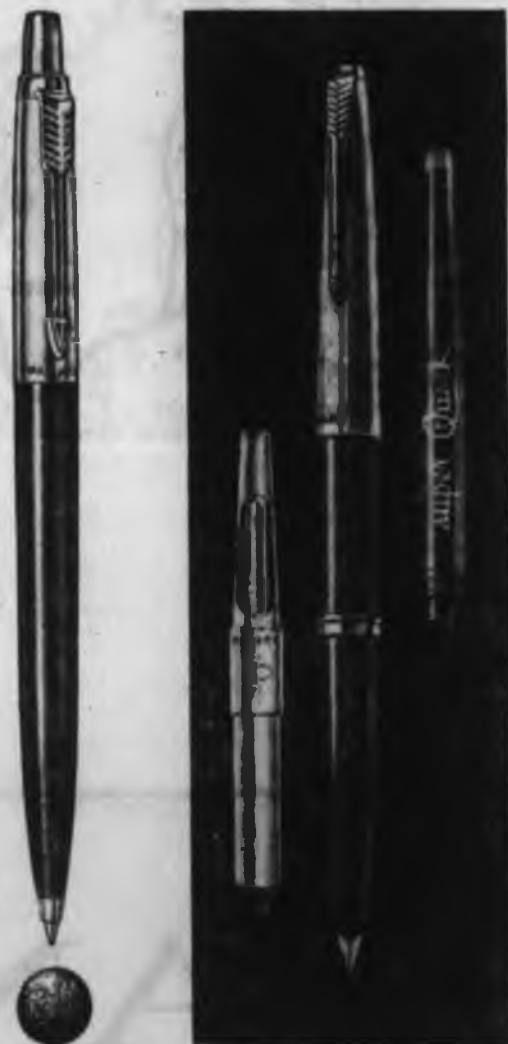

Shifts gears—The whole refill "shifts gears" and makes a quarter turn every time you push the clicker button. This exclusive feature ensures that the point wears evenly and smoothly.

Writes up to 5 times longer—Because of its king-size ink supply, the Parker Jotter writes up to five times longer than ordinary ballpoint pens. Similarly, the refills last longer—give you more ink for your money.

Choice of 4 points—You've a choice of four points (another Parker exclusive): extra fine, fine, medium, and broad.

Pick a Parker Jotter with the famous textured T-Ball

PARKER
Maker of the world's most wanted pens

The new Parker 45 Convertible

The Parker 45 has a 14k gold nib. And it comes attached to a remarkable new kind of fountain pen.

The 45 is "convertible". You can load it with a big Super Quink cartridge, or you can replace the cartridge with the ingenious little "converter" and fill it from the handiest ink bottle.

The 45 helps pay for itself, because the cartridges cost you 20¢ per pack less than the kind you have to use with cheap pens.

The nibs are instantly replaceable. If you damage one, your Parker dealer can fit your 45 with a new one in a matter of seconds.

Choice of 7 nibs. They range from accountant (very fine) to stub (very broad). There's one to fit your handwriting.

A surprising value. You get the pen, the "converter," and a cartridge, all beautifully boxed, for $5.95.

The only pen at the price with a 14 K gold nib

Bridge Strip Tease Results in $10 Fine

A man arrested doing a strip tease on the Johnson Street bridge, Saturday, was fined $10 in city court yesterday for being drunk in a public place. John Drysdale, no fixed address, was stripping to try to dry himself after he took an unexpected header into the water from a boat tied at the Johnson Street bridge float. Police said he was pulled from the water by two passing Chinese.

One Step Beyond

Edward Samowaki, 550 David, stepped unhart from his brother's car following an accident on George Road early Sunday, tripped and fell on the sidewalk, knocking himself unconscious. He was in fairly good condition in Royal Jubilee Hospital with head injuries yesterday. Samowaki, 23, was a passenger in a car driven by his brother Edward, when it hit a telephone pole.

Wilson Votes for Quadra

Development of Quadra Street as a major north-south highway was suggested as a possible alternative to extension of Blanchard Street. Mayor R. B. Wilson said that Quadra Street is capable of handling much more traffic. He said the city is anxious to hear what the provincial government plans to do over a second access route to leave traffic on Douglas Street. It is understood the government has dropped plans to widen and extend Blanchard Street, but no alternative suggestion has been made by the provincial highways department, Mayor Wilson said. Narrowness of Quadra Street south of Hillside could be overcome by a parking ban.

LET'S TALK

By Rudolf Flesch

Show magazine is running instalments of 88-year-old Somerset Maugham's latest autobiographical work, Looking Back. A recent chapter is perhaps the most indiscreet piece of writing I've ever read.

Having run out of other material, Maugham has at last gotten around to telling the story of his marriage, and a most unappealing tale it is. He accuses his late wife of being a "tart" (his own word), a liar, a cheat, a blackmailer and a number of other assorted unpleasant things.

He doesn't say why he has decided to take over this 40-year-old sordid story, but it seems pretty clear he still hates his wife and can't rest until he's taken his posthumous revenge.

He says he met the future Mrs. Maugham when she was

Mrs. Syrie Wellcome, the separated wife of a very rich man. She told Maugham her husband didn't mind whether she carried on with someone else, and they shortly started an affair. (Incidentally, she won Maugham's heart the first evening when she told him she'd rather listen to him talk than go and see a hit show.)

Maugham and Mrs. Wellcome lived together openly, made trips to France and Italy, and everything seemed fine. Then she told Maugham one day she'd like to have a baby. He was amazed by the request, but was glad to oblige.

The Affair Went On

After a miscarriage, Mrs. Wellcome gave birth to a daughter named Elizabeth. Suitable arrangements were made, and the Maugham-Wellcome affair went on as before.

Suddenly the patient Mr. Wellcome decided to be patient no longer and divorced his wife, naming Maugham as co-respondent. Maugham says she'd consistently deceived him about her husband's attitude; he also says she'd given him the impression her alimony was £5,000 a year, while actually it was only £200 a month.

To live in the style she was living, she had to supplement it by money from other men, notably George Selfridge, owner of the famous London department store. Maugham says he didn't know she took money from Selfridge while she was living with him.

He says he never gave her any expensive gifts because he didn't know it was expected of him.

After the divorce had gone through, Maugham married Syrie Wellcome because he felt it was his duty to do so. He doesn't mention how long the marriage lasted but makes it plain his wife made life hell for him. He even reprints in full a long letter he wrote her 40 years ago, complaining bitterly of the way she was treating him.

Once, he says, she came to him with a story that she'd lost in Paris a valuable jade necklace he'd given her. She'd had it insured for a large sum of money and the insurance company promptly paid up.

"About a year later," Maugham writes, "one of the officials of the insurance company was in Paris and happened to stroll along the Rue de la Paix. He stopped to look at the window

Reeve Backs Proposal For High Rise

Oak Bay Reeve George Murdoch yesterday supported city council's plans to have the Mountain View Home property rezoned as a site for a high-rise apartment development.

"My own feeling is that it is an ideal site for a high-rise apartment," he said, "but that's up to council."

The city's application to have the land rezoned from residential to high-rise use is expected to come before the Sept. 15 meeting of Oak Bay council.

Agile Thieves Take $249

An agile thief stole $119 made through an open window, Irving, had $50 and $90, respectively, stolen at the weekend while they slept.

The soft-footed second-storey man entered through an open window after climbing to a garage roof used as a sun porch by the victims.

Mr. Anderson's wallet was lifted from his pants at the foot of his bed. His sister's was taken from a purse.

Car Enthusiasts

They Enjoy Driving
Vintage Vehicles

Things just ain't what they used to be. This is the unofficial motto of a group of young Victoria car enthusiasts who are out to preserve the rumble seat and "running board" in the fast-moving era of spacehips and Sputniks. "They just don't put the same workmanship into cars today that they did 20 or 30 years ago," said David Macdonald, 4794 Interurban, president of the Victoria Region Vintage Car Club of Canada. "We don't collect old cars because of any particular dedication to preserving the past. We just enjoy driving them."

BOTH MECHANICS

Both men, in their early twenties, are mechanics and work for local car dealers.

"We have about 40 members in the club and at least 35 cars," said David. "They range from a 1911 Cadillac to a 1928 Gardiner roadster—the only one still known to exist—to a 1936 Packard super eight."

The club also boasts a 1921 American La France firetruck.

EXTINCT BREED

David owns the Gardiner—a breed, which passed into extinction in the early 30s—and is co-owner of the firetruck with Ken.

"Actually, I own three Gardiners. An elderly lady gave me one about three years ago and I began to collect them," he explained. "I bought the rare 1921 model from a retired military man in Duncan. The owner of the third one heard I was collecting Gardiners and asked me if I wanted to buy his."

PASS THE WORD

"That's the way it is with vintage car collectors," interjected Ken. "You get to be known and when people hear of an old car being sold they pass you the word."

He explained how one club member had been trying unsuccessfully to buy a 1931 Chrysler coupe from an old lady who had driven the car since new. But it just wasn't for sale.

"Then somebody tipped him that she wasn't driving any more and the car was for sale. He went over and bought it."

STILL ON ROAD

The two car collectors picked up the firetruck last year from members of the Vancouver Vintage Car Club. It was decommissioned in 1958.

"To my knowledge it's the only pre-1929 ladder truck still on the road," said Ken.

The firetruck and six vintage cars from the club recently appeared in the Roaring Twenties scene of the centennial pageant.

"We have no trouble getting parts," said Ken.

Backroad
Romance

Vintage car enthusiast David Macdonald gets ready to take 1921 American La France firetruck on tour of backroads near his Interurban Road home. He and friend Ken Showers, both members of Victoria Region Vintage Car Club of Canada, bought truck three years ago.

Navy Set
For Visit
To Fair

The flag of Rear-Admiral E. W. Finch-Noyes will fly from the mast of HMCS Fraser, senior ship in the Second Canadian Escort Squadron, during the scheduled visit of RCN ships to Seattle early next month.

Admiral Finch-Noyes, senior naval officer on the west coast, will take part in ceremonies marking Canada week at the Seattle world's fair.

The ships, including the destroyer escorts Saguenay, Ottawa, Skeena and Margaree, will sail from Esquimalt at 8 a.m. Sept. 10, and remain a week in Seattle. The admiral, however, is expected to return to his duties here earlier in the week.

Outlined in lights as they ride at anchor in Elliott Bay, off Seattle's waterfront, the Esquimalt-based ships will provide one of the colorful Canadian attractions for fairgoers during the week.

Other attractions include the Canadian military tattoo, the RCMP musical ride, and aerobatic displays by the RCAF Golden Hawks.

The warships will be berthed at Pier 91 during periods when the ships will be open to visitors.

Abstract
Forms
Needed

One or two concrete abstract forms full of holes for children to climb through are needed at Cadboro-Gyro Park in Cadboro Bay, Saanich parks committee chairman said yesterday.

Coun. Gregory Cook said he has no idea who could design such an object, but that one or two are needed to "soft off" the overall appearance.

Too Many to Read

Are Oak Bay's Drivers
Becoming 'Sign Deaf'?

Oak Bay drivers are becoming "sign deaf" as notices mushroom on every street in the municipality, Coun. Allan Cox said last night.

"On some streets there are so many signs, one after the other, that people don't see them—or at least read them," he told the works and parks committee.

'NOT OVERSPENT'

Noting that the maintenance accounts showed danger of overspending the $10,270 budget allocation for street signs, Coun. Cox said: "I suggest this committee direct that it should not be overspent."

He added: "I think we should also ask the streets and traffic committee to review this whole question and see how many signs we can take down from our streets."

COVERS LINES

Reeve George Murdoch pointed out that the item referred to in the budget also covered painting of white lines on streets and yellow curbs where parking is banned.

But Coun. Cox refused to be mollified.

'OVER-SIGNED'

"We're definitely over-signed in this municipality," he said. "And in the couple of years I've been on council we've put so many yellow lines all over the place—I can recall one occasion when we put one up and had to black it over when we changed our minds—it's no wonder that the program is costing us a lot of money."

The committee recommended the engineering department be advised of the need to remain within the street signs budget.

BEEN DESPONDENT

Investigating police said Mrs. Moshier had apparently been despondent for some time about losing her husband.

The bodies were discovered Sunday afternoon by visitors who became alarmed when no one answered the door.

Estranged Wife
Shoots, Kills
Husband, Self

An estranged wife, fearful of losing her husband, made sure early Sunday no one else would ever get him.

Louise Helen Moshier, about 30, shot Clifford Everett Moshier, 39, as he lay sleeping in the bed of her apartment at 527 Selkirk, police said.

She then turned the heavy 12-gauge pump shotgun on herself. Police found her crumpled on the floor beside the bed about 4 p.m. Sunday, nine hours after the murder-suicide.

WEAPON BOUGHT

The death weapon was bought last week by Mrs. Moshier in a downtown department store. She also bought a box of No. 7½ birdshot.

Coroner Dr. J. H. Moore found yesterday that both had died by the hand of Mrs. Moshier.

Mrs. K. A. Moenka, who lives on the ground floor, heard a loud noise at 6:10 a.m. Sunday.

Another shot was heard about an hour later.

CHILD DROWNED

The couple had at least one child who drowned in an accident some time ago, it is believed.

Mrs. Moshier had been under the care of a Victoria psychiatrist.

Both bodies are at McCall's Funeral Home, pending funeral arrangements.

47 Victoria Students
Carry Home
B.C. Scholarships

Seventy-two Vancouver Island university students, including 47 from Victoria, have won government of British Columbia scholarships equal to one-half their next year's tuition fees.

Qualifying mark was 80 per cent or higher in the 1962 examinations at Victoria University and the University of British Columbia.

A total of 380 students in the province won first class honors.

In addition there were approximately 1,300 UBC and Victoria University students with second class standing who qualify for scholarships equal to one-third their tuition fees.

Education Minister Leslie Peterson said the first-class scholarships ranged in value from $161 in the faculty of arts to $264 in medicine. He noted a 25 per cent increase in two years in the number of candidates. "This is a commendable achievement," he said.

Following are first class honors winners:

Victoria winners at Victoria University—Maria K. Abbott, Judith A. Baines, Katherine M. Hergbush, Kenneth M. Blackwell, Barry D. Bowen, Evelyn M. Bowring, Elizabeth D. Beyle, John A. Chapman, Robert V. Chernoff, Jeffrey H. Davis, Patricia L. Evans, Ian H. H. Hill, Anthea D. Fick, Kenneth W. Foster, Richard A. Gough, David G. Haegert, William F. Hubbard, Edward B. Hughes, John P. Lawrence, Sandra A. McKeachie, Victor W. Oulmette, Donald A. Patriarche, Renee Poisson, Gordon A. Robillard, Gerald R. Skinner, Robert C. Trotter.

Vancouver Island winners at Victoria University—David A. Kelly, Nanaimo; Sheila M. MacEwan, Salt Spring Island; Sharon D. Robertson, Duncan; Elsie C. Wollaston, Brentwood Bay; Diana L. McKay, Sidney; Rosemary A. Craig, Shawigan Lake.

Victoria winners at UBC—Paula M. Day, John E. Chamberlin, Ernest S. Hall, Katherine Robertson, John L. Scadding, Nora L. Wright.

Vancouver Island winners at UBC—Mary R. Grant, Lake Cowichan; Glen S. Campbell, Sidney; Ronald G. Parkin, Colin W. Perry, Port Alberni; Marjorie G. Anderson, Courtenay; Mervyn E. Best, Cumberland; Christopher J. Bieley, Campbell River; Richard W. Garner, Carolyn R. Jones, Jerry Mar, David B. Minorgan, Port Alberni; Roy A. Olmstead, Campbell River; Jane M. Pattinson, Alert Bay; Annel R. Rantamaa, Margaret A. Rendle, Courtenay; Louis J. Schulson, Ladysmith; John Tonzelich, Nanaimo; Raymond F. Wargo, Ladysmith; Linda D. Clouston, Port Alberni.

Blotto Budgie Biased
About Heartening Nip

BAD HEALTH: Debbie, a budgie owned by Dr. Adam Macawinski and wife Mary, is on the way to becoming a discriminating alcoholic. Occasionally she has heart attacks, which leave her with one wing and leg paralyzed. So Adam feeds her a nip of whisky. She likes rye but spurns Scotch.

SECRET SIGN: That tatty sign on Belleville near the CPR wharf—listing 22 Victoria service clubs and when and where they meet—is still a mystery. Searchers of city records by both city engineer Jim Garbutt and city clerk Frank Bueker have failed to turn up any reference to the erection of the sign. Investigations are continuing.

MUNGO MONUMENT: Oyster dealer Dave McMillan would like to see a public appeal started to provide a suitable monument for the grave of Kwakiutl carver Chief Mungo Marita. Come to think of it, the provincial government could well do this—Chief Mungo's totem carving in Thunderbird Park didn't hurt the tourist business.

AUTOMATION: Mayor R. B. Wilson will use a power shovel at 2 p.m. today when he officiates at a turning-the-first-sod ceremony on the site of the View Street parking garage.

SMOKE BLOKE: Harold Gregson, who needles city hall as a member of the city's smoke advisory board, tells us local industry operators are luckier than their counterparts in Los Angeles. Down there wood burners like that operated by Moore-Whittington are banned entirely and smoke regulations generally are twice as tough as Victoria's beleaguered rules.

BAD TEMPER: Lighthouse Philosopher Bill Scott almost lost a handful of his thinking hair the other day—a monkey's handful. Fascinated with the antics of two monkeys in the pet shop at Johnson and Broad, Bill made friendly overtures to the monkey in the bottom cage. As he bent over to shake hands, the top one struck.

BAD PUBLICITY: Despite solemn assurances by Esquimalt-Saanich MP George Chatterton after the June 18 election, some of his fluorescent campaign posters can still be seen on power poles along the Malahat.

FINE STORY: Genial publicity commissioner Bill Macmillan has cleared up the mystery of the fishing photo being used on publicity bureau folders—seems the word "Seaside" along the side of the boat refers to a Campbell River motel where the photo was taken, not Seaside, Oregon. So this means we are using a photo of a fish caught at Campbell River in a folder which advises tourists to "Come to Victoria, British Columbia, on Canada's Treasure Island."

Esquimalt
May Hire
Engineer

A consulting engineer may be hired to plan new additions to the Esquimalt Sports Centre, thus allowing the municipal engineer's department to catch up on its work.

Esquimalt engineer John Graeme told council he was "months behind" in his work because of attention given to such projects as the Esquimalt golden jubilee celebrations.

NOT ENOUGH

He said the $20,000 project, which includes construction of a first aid room, referee's office, storage area, new manager's office and extra heating plant underneath the building, would take a lot of planning.

"We just don't have the staff to do it," he said.

Coun. James Bryant estimated hiring of a consulting engineer would add 20 per cent to the cost of construction.

Council asked Mr. Graeme to look into the matter carefully. "If he finds the project will interfere with the work of his department, the municipality will hire a consulting engineer," said Reeve A. C. Wurtel.

Capt. Hayes
Takes Over
Next Tuesday

The occasion is the handing over of command by Captain Victor Browne to Capt. Godfrey Hayes.

Capt. Browne will become chief of staff to Rear-Admiral E. W. Finch-Noyes, flag officer Pacific Coast.

Captain J. C. Pratt, formerly chief of staff here, will take the rank of commodore when he becomes chief of staff to the flag officer Atlantic Coast.

Saanich Youth Dies
In Tree-Car Crash

A 20-year-old Saanich man died in St. Joseph's Hospital Sunday, 12 hours after being crushed under the wheel of the car he was driving.

John Carlson, 1010 Jasmine, was flung from the car as it bounced off a tree. The front wheel ran over his head pinning his body under the vehicle for 10 minutes before he could be released.

Treated at the hospital and released was Robert Martin, 1563 Richardson, owner of the car.

LOST CONTROL

Police said Carlson was driving along Shelbourne near Torquay about 2:30 a.m. Sunday when he lost control of the vehicle.

It sideswiped the tree on the roadside, bounced and struck a raised driveway before careening across the road.

The Saanich youth's skull was fractured. An investigating officer said he would have lived had he been wearing a seat belt.

JACKING UP CAR

Bystanders were jacking up the car to get Carlson out when police arrived.

He died at 2:05 p.m. Sunday. Born and raised here, he is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Carlson, 1010 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Wednesday Jasmine. He graduated from St. Louis College in 1959 and was apprenticed to an electrical firm at the time of his death.

Meals in New Zealand Nightmare to Dieters

By J. C. GRAHAM

AUCKLAND (CP) — The frequency and size of meals in New Zealand are a matter of amazement — and sometimes alarm — to visitors from other countries.

Figure-conscious women from North America are particularly astounded by the apparent blithe attitude on the part of their New Zealand sisters — especially since cream, butter and rich cakes figure so prominently in the diet.

Most New Zealanders eat seven meals of various sizes daily. Some are usually little more than snacks, but all can be made the occasion for substantial intake of food by anyone who has been able to work up an appetite since the previous meal.

The process begins with early morning tea, taken in to give enough strength to get up for breakfast. It is served by son, daughter, husband or wife, depending on which is currently most open to blackmail. The tea is always accompanied by crackers and usually by bread and butter or toast.

Breakfast normally includes cereal, followed by bacon and eggs, toast and marmalade and coffee.

A mid-morning break for tea or coffee is religiously observed in shops and offices at about 10:30, again with biscuits or cakes. At home this snack often expands to an elaborate spread, especially if visitors are calling.

Lunch is a snack or sandwiches for some office workers. But many New Zealanders make it a full repast of several courses, including a meat dish — steak, chops or ham, with vegetables — followed by a steamed pudding or pie.

Mid-afternoon sees a repetition of the morning coffee break, with sandwiches or cakes. This is the major social occasion of the day for women entertaining at home. Friends come in for "afternoon tea" and the more important the gathering the greater variety of dishes expected to be provided.

As a minimum a hostess supplies a large sponge cake, a similar large sliced cake with cream filling and sugar icing, several varieties of small cakes, scones or biscuits, sandwiches and a selection of novelty dishes. The New Zealand hostess would feel insulted if guests did not sample most of the items offered.

This "afternoon tea" is usually served about 3:30 to 4, yet by 6 or 7 the New Zealanders approach the main meal of the day with undiminished zest. Early dinner is likely to consist of soup, a large portion of steak, roast beef or lamb, or some other meat dish with several vegetables, and a pie or fruit.

Even this does not exhaust the gastronomic possibilities of the day. New Zealanders invariably consume a substantial supper before retiring. If out on the town or at a party they like a good solid meal of steak or bacon and eggs to see them through until early morning tea the following day.

It is hardly surprising that visitors who are able to last the distance in company with their New Zealand hosts invariably report startling gains in weight.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Rowley, 1456 Hamley Street, announce the engagement of their daughter, Catherine Elaine, to Mr. Barry Dwayne Parker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Parker, 503 Baker Street. The wedding will take place Sept. 22 at 7:30 p.m. in Victoria Truth Centre, Rev. Emma M. Sniley officiating. — (Ryan Bros.)

Attendants in Turquoise At McCartney-Gibson Wedding

White roses and heather were carried by Barbara Carol, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Gibson for her marriage to John McCartney, son of Mrs. J. McCartney of London, England and the late Mr. McCartney. Rev. Bruce A. Molloy officiated at the double ring ceremony in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church.

The bride chose a floor-length gown of white tulle with sleeves and a beanie bodice. The slim front skirt swept to a full cathedral train. Dainty Swiss embroidered lace enhanced the bodice and skirt. Her veil of silk illusion misted from a double queen's crown. Miss Frances Gibson, maid of honor, and Miss Donna Van Adrichem, bridesmaid, chose identical full-skirted dresses of turquoise velvet, styled with cap sleeves and scoop neckline. Sprays of white heather and feathered carnations topped their white prayer books, which were gifts of the bride.

Alan Glenn was best man and Charlie Emerson and Alex Brack ushered guests.

White asters decorated the bride's table at the reception at the Old England Inn. Heather and roses topped the wedding cake. June Dobie, the bride's uncle proposed the toast.

For her going away outfit the bride changed to a turquoise sheath topped with a white coat. Her accessories were black and her corsage was yellow roses. The couple will make their home at 1280 Newport Avenue.

Holding Prices

Tells Consumers Of Responsibility

TORONTO (CP) — Reliable retailers have tended to make some Canadians sloppy shoppers, the head of the Consumers Association of Canada said here today.

Mrs. A. F. W. Plumtre of Ottawa, CAC national president, told guests at the Canadian National Exhibition's women's day luncheon that consumers are sometimes responsible for increased cost of goods. Unsatisfactory goods returned to a store raised the cost of distribution, she said.

"I would suggest that the first responsibility of consumers is to know what we want when we go to buy any product."

Mrs. Plumtre said consumers should respect the manufacturers' products. She cited a case where shoppers opened vacuum-sealed jars of baby food then replaced them on the supermarket shelf.

Air entered the container and the company was threatened with a suit for putting contaminated baby food on the market. The company had to put an extra closure on the jars to prevent shoppers from opening them.

"And then we complain if the price goes up," she said. With Canada striving for increased exports, it was the responsibility of consumers to help keep prices down and to keep manufacturers alert to faults with their products.

Consumers had a strong protective agency in the food and drug directorate but the federal government department did not have enough staff to enforce its regulations.

It was a sad comment that citizens were not aroused sufficiently to demand action until tragedies happened such as the recent state of deformities attributed to the drug thalidomide.

"We have been content to spend $5,000,000 per annum on keeping ourselves physically fit and only $2,000,000 per annum to give ourselves protection in the wide field which includes the safety of all food and all drugs, old and new."

Your Problems

By Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: I'm 26, divorced, have a pleasant face and a better than average figure. I must work to support myself and my son. I became a dance instructor two years ago but have graduated to a better-paying type of work which is hard to explain in a letter.

As part of my job I used to accompany my pupils to parties, night clubs, or wherever they wished to go to show off their dancing. Now I do very little dancing. Most of the time I accompany men to various places where they want a female companion. The dance studio gets a percentage of my fees.

I make good money but I work a very long day, or I should say night. My job is not as glamorous as it sounds. I must spend a fortune on clothes as my appearance is my stock in trade. I often have to put up with real slobs—most of them married men.

The worst of it is, I find myself lying about what I do for a living. I feel uncomfortable around decent people and want to quit this life. But I'm not trained for any other kind of work and I can't afford to be unemployed. Please give me some common-sense advice—

BETTY.

Dear Betty: A dance instructor who does very little dancing is no dance instructor. You are a paid companion for men—most of whom are married.

You say you are not trained for any other kind of work. How did you train for this? If you are sincere in your wish to hold your head up among decent people, get out of those beaded dresses and go look for a job. You may not make as much money but you won't have to spend as much either.

And who knows—you may even meet a respectable single fellow who would like to get married.

Dear Ann Landers: This is for the benefit of "Broke And In Hock," the woman whose husband ran up bills all over town and borrowed from everybody. Most states have "spendthrift guardianship laws." Mrs. Broke could file a petition in court to be appointed hubby's guardian. (For example: Michigan Statutes 27.3718 (201).)

If granted, the pay check would come to her instead of her spendthrift husband. She could sell those three motorcycles and give merchants notice which would stop his credit buying for all but necessities.

If the petition is not granted, the proceedings might throw enough of a scare into him to bring him to his senses.

Separate maintenance in a case like this rarely works. A man who is irresponsible and wishes to avoid paying can think of more tricks than a monkey with a rope.

I hope this letter opens up a few eyes around the country.—MARTIN L.

Dear Martin: Thanks for your informative note. It opened two eyes for sure—mine!

From London's autumn collection: a suit in fine British featherweight gunmetal serge by Susan Small. Wide leather belt and caramel lining are finishing touches.

Following up Mrs. W. C.'s time for normally soiled problem of a grey wash, here is what the experts recommend for successful washing of whites in an automatic machine. Use the proper soap or detergent. Some make such heavy suds that you cannot add enough detergent to do a good washing job. A low-sudsing detergent, or a washday soap plus water conditioner does a fine job. (Water conditioners prevent the formation of suds and soap scum). Use the recommended amount of soap, not by guess but by measurement. Too much soap cannot be removed by the regular rinse cycle. Brush some of the soap into the bed of soiled collars and cuffs, etc. Do not overload your washer. Sticking too many clothes in at one time doesn't give the wash water a chance to flush thoroughly through the clothes. Set the temperature dial on "Hot," the hotter the water, the cleaner the wash. Set the time dial for ten minutes. This is sufficient.

TV TALK

By JIM TAYLOR

Channel 11 (KTNV) drops its network affiliation with CBS as of Sept. 1, which means a lot of new shows and even more reruns.

For instance, the 7 p.m. time slot will be filled with what KTNV refers to as an "adventure blockbuster," with Paradise, Suspicion, Riverboat, Cimarron City, Overland Trail and (in October) Chickadee, each showing one night per week.

Check of the first week's listings also shows reruns of Dragnet, Highway Patrol, Son of Gun, Hudson, Broken Arrow, Shotgun Slade, Federal Men and Silent Service.

New shows will include Operation Alphabet, an educational feature to teach reading and writing to people who have not learned; Bwana Don in Jungle, a children's show with live animals; and Global Zobel, a travel program with Myron Zobel.

What all this means is that, interspersed with new shows, we now have a channel on which we can watch summer reruns all year long. Makes you feel warm all over, doesn't it?

'Different' Explorer Dies

HANOVER, N.H. (AP)—Vilhjalmur Stefansson—Canadian-born scientist and explorer who nearly half a century ago foresaw air traffic over the North Pole and submarines beneath it—died Sunday at the age of 82.

One of the last of the old fashioned dog sled explorers, Stefansson suffered a stroke last Monday.

MANITOBA NATIVE

He had been Arctic consultant at Dartmouth College and curator of the Stefansson collection of polar literature since 1947.

Stefansson was born in Arnes, Man., on Nov. 3, 1879, of Icelandic parents. They moved to the North Dakota territory when Stefansson was 18 months old.

He began his northern explorations in 1904 and in the following 15 years spent 10 winters and 13 summers in the far north.

His greater contribution was considered to be to science, not exploration. On his 80th birthday an editorial writer wrote: "Stefansson was a different kind of explorer... His interest in sciences and related subjects distinguished his work from that of men who merely sought to sledge farther north or farther south than anyone else. As a result he is perhaps better known today for what he has written about the Arctic than what he did there."

Stefansson once explained these feelings, saying: "When I am asked if I have ever gone to the North Pole, I say no. I am a scientist, not a tourist."

In 1922 he predicted that air traffic between North America and the Euro-Asian land mass would lead over the North Pole. In 1934 regularly scheduled transpolar air service was inaugurated.

He foresaw the day that submarines would travel under the Arctic ice pack.

In 1919 he retired from active exploration and devoted his energies to studying, writing and lecturing about the Arctic and assembling the Stefansson collection.

He wrote some 24 books and more than 400 articles about the far north and its people. Stefansson had completed the first draft of an autobiography only a week before he was stricken.

slower brewing is an Old Style tradition

Old Style is calmly brewed, with no concern for time. Faithful to our original recipe, carefully selected barley, hops and yeast are blended, brewed and, finally, put away to mature slowly in quiet ageing cellars. Brewed in this traditionally unhurried manner, Old Style's brilliant colour, fine flavour, and mellow taste mature naturally. Slower brewing is the reason so many people prefer Old Style.

Launching Ramps At Uplands Park Proving Popular

Pleasure boat owners are using the new launching ramps at Uplands Park in such numbers that Oak Bay will likely be forced to increase adjoining parking facilities in the near future.

Municipal engineer Geoffrey White told last night's meeting of the works and parks committee that he expected the extension of facilities for parking cars and boat trailers will be needed next year.

He said there is space for an addition that would increase the capacity by about 75 per cent, though it might not be all developed at one time.

Coun. Robinson, chairman of the committee, said he had heard only complimentary remarks from boatmen concerning the recently completed double ramp.

ONE THING LACKING

"It's a marvellous thing for boating enthusiasts," he said. "There is only one thing lacking—a float to allow boats to tie up while waiting their turn to unload and let passengers embark and disembark."

Coun. Robinson added that a submerged rock some distance off shore had damaged outboard motors of two boats recently. He urged the municipality to press for a marker to be supplied by the department of transport.

"A lot more permanent solution" according to Coun. Allan Cox would be to have the rock blown to bits with high explosive.

He suggested that a request sent forward to the RCN Pacific Command would probably bring navy divers to the spot where they could carry out their training program in removal of underwater obstacles.

NO COMPLAINTS

The committee agreed the suggestion should be placed before council for its consideration.

Reeve George Murdoch told the committee he had received no complaints following council's action in closing the old launching ramp on Beach Drive near Oak Bay boathouse to everyday use.

"It was a pleasure to drive around there last weekend and not have to wait half an hour while some fellow gets his boat in the water," the reeve said.

Coun. Robinson confirmed that "nobody seemed upset" by the ramp closure.

No Closing Rush In Picking Season

The berry-picking season is rapidly drawing to a close without the expected last-minute demand for personnel, the National Employment Service reported yesterday.

"Because anticipated hot weather didn't come, the crops continued to ripen gradually," explained a NES spokesman. "In the main growers were able to make use of pickers who have been with them all summer."

More Winter Jobs Goal in Oak Bay

Oak Bay will consider beefing up its winter works program this year to offset the possibility of a slump in employment during the next few months.

"I know this is a touchy subject," said Coun. Allan Cox at last night's meeting of the works committee. "But I have a feeling this is going to be a tough winter for employment."

"The federal government has already slashed a number of its public works projects for this area and it could be the municipality's winter works program will play a more vital role in providing jobs than in the past couple of years."

Saanich Regrets

Only $331 for Defence Home

Saanich will build its civil defence headquarters near the spot where an enemy's nuclear-armed missile would be aimed to obliterate Victoria.

The municipality will spend a bare minimum of $331 to convert three rooms in the basement of the new police fire building into a CD headquarters.

NATIONAL CHOICE

The building is situated near a point chosen by national defence department experts as the most likely spot for a five-megaton bomb to land.

Plans for a self-sustaining $9,000 CD unit in the basement of the same building apparently were scuttled by the federal government's austerity program.

Saanich wanted to re-allot that much toward the headquarters from its $13,000 civil defence budget already approved by Ottawa.

IS IT WORTHWHILE?

But the committee was informed "the federal government has no funds available for re-allotment and has been unable therefore to approve your request."

Committee chairman Coun. Joseph Casey asked if Saanich's effort is worthwhile: "All we're doing this for is so we won't be criticized—so we can say we have civil defence."

"I feel we can't give up the program," said civil defence officer David Smith, chief inspector in the municipality.

"This isn't just for civil defence. How do we know a passing American plane isn't going to crash here in the middle of the night and cause a panic situation?" asked Reeve Stanley Murphy.

Committee decided to spend $331 fixing up three basement rooms to minimum requirements.

It will ask the provincial government to re-allocate the money from expenses saved on other Saanich civil defence expenditures.

It also decided to accept a provincial offer to install a very high frequency radio set in the new headquarters as a link in a province-wide emergency communications hookup.

Filling Breakfast For Celebrations

Another breakfast for Victoria centennial celebrants is planned for mid-September.

But this one, unlike the one thrown by the Junior Chamber of Commerce in front of City Hall on the city's 100th birthday, won't be outdoors and won't be free.

Centennial organizers plan an all-you-can-eat loggers' breakfast at a standard price in Victoria restaurants Sept. 14, the first day of the two-day Pacific Northwest Logging Games championships.

Menu is to be juice, hotcakes and sausages, and coffee. Centennial organizers say some restaurants have already agreed with the idea and others will be approached.

Other highlights complementing the star-studded logging games competitions will be the finals of the Knights of the Beard contest, comedy acts, loggers' dances and other novelty entertainment.

Details of many features are not yet available. Dates and places for preliminary beard-judging will be announced soon. Categories for judging have not been established but two, will certainly be best all-round beard and most unusual beard.

At least 10 world champions and former world champions, along with a couple of All-American champions and a couple of Canadian champs, are expected to compete in the logging games.

At least one competitor, Bill Johnson, will be from Australia. There is a chance that Jim

Venus Shot Not Far Off Course

China Bomb 'Nuisance'

ANARILLO, Tex. (UPI)—A bomb scientist Dr. Edward Teller, said Monday that, even if Communist China manages to explode a nuclear bomb soon, it will make the Chinese more of a "nuisance" than a serious threat to the free world.

"The spread of nuclear weapons is unavoidable," Teller said.

Perhaps Soon

Nuclear Weapon For China

By PHIL NEWBOM
UPI News Analyst

The United States issued a reminder on Monday that at least a crude nuclear weapon soon may be available to the man who wrote that "political power comes from the barrel of a gun."

The man who coined that phrase is Mao Tse-tung, spiritual and physical leader of Red China.

EARLY WARNING

A senior official of the U.S. Arms Control and Disarmament Agency held up the spectre of Red China's future nuclear capabilities before a group of U.S. and foreign newsmen. In a first version he predicted that the Red Chinese "probably" could touch off a nuclear blast within a matter of months. A retraction revised the time element to perhaps a year or more than a year.

In themselves, neither the earlier nor the later version contained anything new. Since the beginning of this year there have been warnings that Red China had the knowledge and probably the resources to explode such a device within a frighteningly short time.

TIMING SIGNIFICANT

Of perhaps more immediate significance was the timing, coupled as it was with the joint announcement by President Kennedy and Prime Minister Macmillan that the United States and Britain would accept a nuclear test ban agreement which did not include on-site inspections of tests in the atmosphere, in outer space or underwater.

The announcement said the two nations would continue to insist on on-site inspection of underground explosions. Red China clearly was a part of the thinking.

Critics Excluded

Bishop's Twist Defended

GUILDFORD, England (CP)—A clergyman has asked critics of a bishop who danced the twist to keep away from his church after it is built.

Rev. Roy Trevillian said the critics of Bishop George Reisdorf would be "quite lost among a bunch of people who not only say their prayers but who can also enjoy themselves without thinking too much about their dignity."

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—The U.S. Mariner II spaceship sped toward an intended December rendezvous with the planet Venus Monday night when project scientists learned the craft was too far off course to carry out its mission.

But officials announced late Monday after exhaustive study of tracking data that "the space craft is on a trajectory that can be corrected to make it fly by Venus within a distance of 10,000 miles as planned."

ONLY 230,000

They reported that the 447-pound space voyager had been propelled only 250,000 miles off course instead of the 800,000 miles indicated by early figures.

If the United States' newest and brightest planetary explorer completes its assignment after a journey of 180,000,000 miles, it will provide the world's first close-up look at mysteries of the puzzling planet.

Among other things, Mariner II could determine whether life exists on Venus—something doubted by most scientists.

Mariner II carries a tiny 37.3-pound motor capable of correcting a trajectory error of up to 500,000 miles.

It applied to the 600,000-mile figure, firing the motor would have brought Mariner II only within 100,000 miles of Venus—far beyond the maximum 25,000-range officials set for obtaining useful data about the mysterious, cloud-shrouded planet.

FORMULAS NEEDED

Scientists set to work preparing precise formulas needed for the critical firing of the motor in eight days, on Sept. 4.

They noted that all communications, data-gathering and other systems were working perfectly but that electronic bugs or space dangers—such as radiation, varying temperature and meteorites—could ruin parts of the experiment.

Even if the mid-course manoeuvre does work, they said, Mariner II would still face formidable hurdles on its trip.

MANCHESTER, England

(Reuters)—Sir Bernard Lovell, director of Britain's giant radio telescope at Jodrell Bank, said Monday that if the instruments on the United States Venus rocket continue to work it will be the world's most successful investigation of space.

Revelstoke Vote

We Can't Lose Sacred Slogan

By TERRY HAMMOND
Colonist Legislative Reporter

A quiet but nonetheless maximum effort is being made by the Social Credit Party to recapture the elusive Revelstoke legislative seat in the Sept. 4 byelection.

Party strategy apparently too is to take full advantage of a win-all-or-lose-nothing situation.

A Sacred victory in the seat the government lost to the NDP-CCF's late George Hobbs in 1960 would be a significant achievement, but an NDP victory would cost the Bennett regime little or nothing in prestige.

WITHOUT FANFARE

To make sure that the effects of a government defeat in the riding are minimal the Social Credit party is waging its intensive campaign without fanfare and is studiously avoiding any emphasis on the importance of the outcome until after the votes are counted.

Then, if victory is theirs, the contest will suddenly acquire a political stature which

Pact Closer

OTTAWA (CP)—Justice Minister Fleming said Monday

night his four-hour conference Monday with Premier Bennett of British Columbia achieved "quite satisfactory progress" on the Columbia River power development.

"We've never been closer together," chimed in Mr. Bennett at a brief press conference following their private meeting, which included a number of federal officials as well.

NO DETAILS

However, neither Mr. Fleming nor Mr. Bennett would go into details of the points under discussion. They said they plan a further "exchange" before Parliament meets Sept. 27.

Canada has signed a treaty with the United States for development of the power potential of the international river but the treaty has not yet been ratified by Parliament pending agreement between Ottawa and the B.C. government on sale of downstream power benefits and financing of the $300,000,000 project.

At the same time there is concern over the limited success of the Alliance-for-progress aid program, at raising living standards throughout Latin America. The 10-year, $20,000,000 program, in which the U.S. footed half the bill, has accomplished little in its first year.

Inflation and unemployment, entrenched reaction and revolutionary turmoil have played havoc with pledges of many Latin American countries to reform government administration and taxation systems.

Many Latin American officials, in turn, have blamed U.S. alliance officials for failing to understand their diverse problems.

Economically, the Castro regime may be faring no better than some of the other impoverished countries. But Soviet aid may veil the true state of Cuban industry and the battalions of "technicians" Castro is reported to be importing from the Soviet bloc may help to stave off any major show of restlessness among the Cuban elites.

The stronger Castro becomes the more difficult it will be to dislodge him.

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker says that if Russia were sincere in wanting a nuclear test ban the British and American proposal made in Geneva Monday should have been acceptable.

He told reporters Monday that Britain and the United States in their proposal "went far beyond that which could have been anticipated a year or two ago."

One treaty called for a ban on all nuclear tests. Soviet delegate Vasily Kuznetsov rejected it — "flatly," Western sources said — on the grounds that it

Algerian Women:

Give Us Bread And Freedom!

ALGIERS (AP)—Several hundred veiled Moslem women

marched through the streets of Algiers Monday, clamoring for bread and freedom from the cap-it's military rulers.

Some were accompanied by children as they spilled out of the ancient Casbah, carrying banners and chanting slogans.

Troops of the guerrilla army controlling the Algiers military zone made no attempt to disrupt the demonstration, which underlined the rising anger of Algeria's hungry masses.

FORM COMMITTEE

To the west, military leaders rallied to the support of Ahmed Ben Bella and appealed to the people to form vigilance committees against the guerrilla chieftains in Algiers.

The 20,000-man guerrilla army here has forced Ben Bella to shakedown, at least temporarily, efforts to function as a leader in Algiers, in effect vetoing his bid to form a central Algerian government in the capital.

BUREAU CRIPPLED

His political bureau, thus crippled, announced last Saturday that it could no longer function here. In the prepared text of its announcement the bureau said it could no longer "function usefully" because of guerrilla army pressures. When bureau spokesman Mohammed Khider read the announcement to reporters, he conspicuously omitted the word "usefully."

IRRESPONSIBLE ACTS

The general staff of the 45,000-man regular army, based at Oran in western Algeria, the city to which Ben Bella and most of his political bureau retired, accused guerrillas in this central Algerian city of "irresponsible acts obstructing the rebirth of the state."

It called Ben Bella's political bureau — a seven-man body which failed to get off the ground — the nation's "only legitimate authority."

NEEDS SUPPORT

It seemed obvious to officials of various defense ministries in Algiers that Ben Bella was attempting to muster decisive military support in western Algeria.

So far, all Algerian military and civilian leaders have stressed the desperate need to avert bloodshed.

At the same time there is concern over the limited success of the Alliance-for-progress aid program, at raising living standards throughout Latin America. The 10-year, $20,000,000 program, in which the U.S. footed half the bill, has accomplished little in its first year.

Inflation and unemployment, entrenched reaction and revolutionary turmoil have played havoc with pledges of many Latin American countries to reform government administration and taxation systems.

Many Latin American officials, in turn, have blamed U.S. alliance officials for failing to understand their diverse problems.

Economically, the Castro regime may be faring no better than some of the other impoverished countries. But Soviet aid may veil the true state of Cuban industry and the battalions of "technicians" Castro is reported to be importing from the Soviet bloc may help to stave off any major show of restlessness among the Cuban elites.

The stronger Castro becomes the more difficult it will be to dislodge him.

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker says that if Russia were sincere in wanting a nuclear test ban the British and American proposal made in Geneva Monday should have been acceptable.

He told reporters Monday that Britain and the United States in their proposal "went far beyond that which could have been anticipated a year or two ago."

One treaty called for a ban on all nuclear tests. Soviet delegate Vasily Kuznetsov rejected it — "flatly," Western sources said — on the grounds that it

Defence Minister Harkness announced the amount of the cut last week and said the army's share would be $25,000,000. His statement contained only an oblique reference to the national survival program when it said: "Rentals of telephone and television circuits, usually a heavy expenditure, will be restricted."

It also said procurement of "some items" would be postponed.

Informants said plans for a complete network of nuclear fallout reporting stations—some 2,000 in all—have been temporarily shelved.

These stations, linked to central information collection points by a widespread communications system, were to have been the foundation of the national survival program.

The stations, many of which are already in existence, report the intensity of fallout in any given area. From their reports, the general fallout pattern is plotted so that the population can be warned where and when they should take shelter.

She'd Trade Baby For Family Home

DERBY, England (Reuters)—Mrs. Jean Rook, a

mother of six, Monday offered to give away her month-old baby in exchange for a house.

Mrs. Rook, baby Jacqueline and her five other children, have been staying at a city welfare home here and her unemployed husband, Jim, 35, at a Salvation Army men's hostel, since they were evicted from their low-rent council home.

"The family should stick together and we have tramped the streets to get a home," said Mrs. Rook.

"Now in desperation we have made this decision. We love the baby very much, but we have no alternative."

'Victory Over Myself'

INSTALLMENT II—

Before he was the heavyweight title, Floyd Patterson had to kick his toughest opponent—himself. Here is a new installment of Patterson's own story, "Victory Over Myself."

By FLOYD PATTERSON

We always lived in a cold-water, four or five-room railway flat, sometimes with a coal stove in the front, sometimes with a small oil heater in the back. The only windows were in the rooms in the front and the back, and it was always too hot in the summer, too cold in the winter, and never big enough.

Frank, Billy and I would sleep in the same bed, the two of them at the head of the bed and I at the foot, but in between so that their feet were always all over me. I don't think that bothered me. I didn't know any better, but there came a time when I began to have terrible nightmares. I'd wake up in a dreadful sweat yelling at the top of my voice. My mother'd put cold towels on my head and hold me in her arms and comfort me.

Nobody knew when it was going to happen or why it happened. My mother took me to a doctor, but I kept it up all the time until I got to Wiltwyck and then these nightmares stopped.

My father, Thomas, was in his early forties then, but worked so hard for so little. Each job he took seemed to me to take more out of him. He worked on construction gangs, as a longshoreman, in the Sanitation Department, as a truck helper in the Fulton Fish Market. He'd come home so tired and so frustrated that sometimes he wouldn't even eat. He'd lay down on the bed and fall asleep in his clothes. On Friday I'd watch him come home and put his money on the table for my mother and I began to feel ashamed, even at the early age, of eating there. I felt like a freeloader.

Forever Getting Picked Up

I never stole money, but I stole other little things. And, of course, as a habitual truant, I was forever getting picked up. Seems to me like I lived in court and should have had a room there. It was hooky, running away from home, getting caught stealing. It must have been 30 to 40 times, and all the time I had the feeling now that I'm here they can do anything they want with me.

I asked my mother many times to let me quit school. That way, I figured, I wouldn't have to be running away all the time and hiding from the truant officer. That way, I figured, I could get a job of some kind, do a man's work, bring something into the house. My mother only knew one

Why Should I Be Selected?

One day when I was walking through the street, another kid ran up to me and thrust a paper sack into my hands. "Here," he said, excited-like. "Here's some soda for you." I looked into the sack and there were several bottles of pop. I didn't know him. I couldn't understand why he would be giving me something that was his without paying for it. I didn't know why I should be selected for a gift. People didn't usually give me something for nothing. I started to run all the way home with the bag. However, I hadn't gone half a block when a man put his arm on me and grabbed me by the shoulder.

That Made Me Crazy Mad

Suddenly he picked up a wooden crate from the ground and hit me over the head with it. That made me crazy mad. I grabbed another crate and started swinging it at him. I tried to kick him and punch him. The cop later told me I was like a wild man screaming and crying and yelling that I didn't do anything. Lucky for me my mother was home then. Lucille still that she was able to persuade the cop that she knew I was telling the truth because I was crying. They let me go that time, but another couple of times I was hungry and had no money. I grabbed two bags filled with fruit and went out the way I had come with out anybody seeing me. I thought,

Something's Got to Be Done

"I know, judge," she said. "I know something's got to be done." I was looking down at the floor, but I heard it all. I felt this was the end. I heard the judge saying words like the law, probation, juvenile delinquency and all it meant to me was one word: prison. I said to myself, What difference does it make? Who's going to miss me? Who am I? Why is it so important if I'll be here or there?

Then I heard my mother say: "The twig is bent early. I'll always remember those words."

"I'll run away," I said. "Son," she said, "they'll teach you to read and write. They'll teach you to get along with other people."

That was September, 1945. There were seven kids in our family by then. Frank and Billy and especially my sister Deanna seemed sorry to see me go. Sherman, Ramond and Larry were babies. What difference did it make to them? I couldn't conceive of my body wanting to help me. I'd never seen open fields or hills

Burket's Kicking Gives Riders Tie

CALGARY (CP) — Saskatchewan Roughriders put the foot back into football Monday night as Ferd Burket's third single of the game gave them a 7-7 tie with Calgary Stampeders in their Western Conference fixture.

All Riders points were scored on kicks as Reg Whitehouse booted a field goal and a second field goal attempt went wide for a single. The Stampeders, trailing 6-0 until the final quarter, brought the 11,000 fans to life when full-back Earl Lunsford booted over for the game's only touchdown for the game's only touchdown to give them a temporary 7-6 lead.

FAILS REPORT

But Burket's booming punt tied the score less than four minutes later and the game ended as the Saskatchewan kicker tried for the winning single from midfield and fell 10 yards short.

A cold wind and driving rain hampered play from the second quarter on.

Both defensive squads stood out in the contest and both teams had only one good shot at a touchdown. Calgary made the most of their opportunity but Jerry Keeling stopped Roughriders with an interception on the three.

Ottawa Defeats Lions, 18-7 Penalties, Errors Take Toll

By JIM TANG
Colonist Sports Editor

VANCOUVER—It's still a matter of some debate whether Ottawa Rough Riders won a game here last night or B.C. Lions lost one. But on the Empire Stadium scoreboard it said Ottawa 18, Lions 7, and that's where it counts.

In their last four games, Lions have proven that at last they really belong in the Canadian Football League. They put on another fair show for 28,423 fans here last night, but of penalties in the third quarter, and the loss of two key defensive men early in the game. Rookie guard Tom Walker hurt a knee, and line-backer Don Vic left with Ottawa's Bob Simpson for fighting.)

FIRST MISTAKE
Judgment error No. 1 came with 16 seconds left in the first half and Lions trailing 10, on a single by Moe Racine on an attempted field goal.

With the ball on his own 21-yard line, quarterback Joe Kapp elected to pass. Under a big rush he threw directly to Ottawa's Jim Conroy, who gratefully gathered the ball in at the Lion 25 and ran for the touchdown. Racine's convert made it 10-0.

ONE MARCH
Lions got the touchdown back early in the third quarter on the only march they were able to sustain all night. In seven plays they went 77 yards, Tom Larschide scoring on a 17-yard screen pass and Vic Kristopaitis converting.

Other marches started, and faltered, mainly through penalties. In the second quarter they went from their own two-yard line to the 40, Nub Beamer plowed for a first down, and Lions were called for holding. In the third quarter they had Ottawa deep in its own zone, and were called for roughing the kicker.

QUICK KICK
The capper came in the third, when Lions went from their own 19-yard line to the Ottawa 50. Rough play put the ball back to the 41, Willie Fleming went 17 yards, and Lions were called for clipping. A quick kick by Larschide caught Riders napping and drove them back to mid-field, but Lions were called for no yards, got knocked another 10 for talking, and set a probable record with 65 yards in penalties on three plays.

Riders took it from there for a 36-yard field goal by Racine that made it 17-7, and got their last touchdown in the final seconds on a run by Russ Jackson as they went 59 yards in seven plays while running out the clock.

In between, Lions twice got the ball deep into Ottawa territory and were stopped on third down—once with one yard to go and once with five.

Lions actually held the Riders quite well—all but Ron Stewart. The stubby halfback, who hasn't signed his contract yet, ran for 126 of Riders' 146 yards rushing in the first half, on jaunts of 68, 49 and 11 yards. He also caught a pass for 37 yards, accounting for 168 of Riders' 183-yard offence in the first half.

Lions play their next game Friday against the Eskimos in Edmonton.

... beats pros

Wakeham In 'Walk'

TRAIL (CP) — B.C. amateur champ Bill Wakeham of Victoria put together a 36-hole score of 134, eight under par, to leave the professionals far behind in winning the annual Rossland-Trail open golf tournament here Sunday.

Wakeham, 21, shot his second straight 67 in the rain Sunday for a four-stroke lead over the top pro, Tom Everham of Spokane, who shot 138.

Host pro Roy Stone got second pro money with 143. Ron Wiley and Joe Jerski of Vancouver followed with 147 and 148 respectively.

Yankee's Nosedive Stopped by Terry

New York Yankees, reeling under a six-game losing streak, threw their ace at Cleveland Indians last night, and Ralph Terry came through with a three-hit, 5-1 victory.

Terry, the winningest pitcher in the American League with 19 victories, got four hits from Mickey Mantle to help him end the longest Yankee losing streak since 1958.

In other games last night, Washington shut out the Orioles, 7-0, in a four-hitter by Tom Cheney, and Boston Red Sox stopped Detroit Tigers, 7-4.

There were no games scheduled in the National League last night.

Not even a no-hitter by Minnesota's Jack Krackick could make bigger news Sunday than the Yankees did by losing.

ROBERTS WINS
Robin Roberts, the man the Yankees couldn't use, stopped them with a five-hitter for his eighth victory, giving Baltimore Orioles a 2-1 victory over Whitey Ford and a sweep of their five-game series. Suddenly, there was a pennant race again in the American League.

Coupled with Los Angeles Angels' 4-0 victory over Chicago and Minnesota's 1-0 win over Kansas City on Krackick's no-hitter, it left the Yanks only three games out in front. Terry's win last night made it 3-1, but at least things are interesting again.

Krackick, who hadn't completed a game in 29 starts, pitched a beauty when he finally made it for his 10th victory against eight losses.

Angered Tourists Blame Crash On Road Surface

DUNCAN—An angry California couple has blamed "dangerous road conditions" for the crash which sent one of them to hospital here with a broken leg.

Stranded with his hospitalized wife in Duncan, Prof. Frank Pettipfer of San Francisco insists that the "slippery and defective surface of the highway" caused him to lose control of his car when it whirled around and crashed into a sandbank at the far side of the road.

NEAR FATALITY SCENE

The accident occurred near the scene of a fatal crash two months earlier.

Mrs. Grace Pettipfer, who suffered two broken bones in her left leg, said "we were driving at 40 miles an hour when an oncoming car forced us to drive to the right side of the highway."

By this time, her husband had slowed to 35 miles an hour, but the car suddenly began to slide and went out of control.

LEARNED OF REPAIR

Seeking a reason for the accident, Mrs. Pettipfer learned of the road repair completed shortly after four people died when their car crashed head-on into a truck. She said "I have learned since of accidents near this spot, entirely due to inefficiency in dealing with the defects in this road."

Professor Pettipfer said that his report to the California State Automobile Association will point out that the highway south of Duncan is unsafe for tourists who are unaware of the treacherous road.

As a consulting engineer he feels the highway at this point should be reconstructed to avoid further and possible fatal accidents. "I certainly will tell my many friends about it," he added.

Magistrate's Warning

Nanaimo Men Fined For Boat Violations

NANAIMO — Magistrate Lionel Beaver-Potts Monday dealt with two infractions of the regulations governing the operation of small boats.

Robert McInnes, Nanaimo, pleaded guilty to navigating his boat in the passage between Nanaimo and Newcastle Island Aug. 16, without any navigation lights.

FINED $30

He told the court his return had been delayed by a breakdown. He was fined $30.

In the second case, William Edward Stocker of Nanaimo, operator of Anchorage Marina, pleaded guilty to permitting one of his rented boats, less than 18 feet in length, to be operated with no fire extinguisher.

RCMP boat Sidney had checked the boat off Five Fingers Islands.

MORE SERIOUS

Mr. Stocker said that the party renting the boat had taken it unexpectedly early, before it had been properly checked out.

He admitted that the boat was equipped with a pressurized tin of vaporizing fluid instead of regulation fire extinguishers.

The magistrate said he was determined to enforce boating regulations.

He considered neglect to obey the regulations on the part of a marina operator a more serious offence than similar neglect by a private owner.

"I am fining you $30," said the magistrate, "but I am giving fair warning. Any marina operator similarly convicted in future will pay a fine of at least twice that amount."

City Officer Tours North

Gaps in Ferry Brochures Spur Protest by Chamber

COURTENAY — The Courtenay-Comox Chamber of Commerce says the publicity brochures of three ferry companies are responsible for the CPR's planned removal of two ferries from the Vancouver-Nanaimo service.

It says the chamber will protest to the Washington State Ferry Service for the omission of Island Highway north of Nanaimo from its brochure maps. It will also protest to the CPR and the B.C. Government Things just ain't what they used to be.

This is the unofficial motto of a group of young Victoria car enthusiasts who are out to preserve the rumble seat and running board in the fast-moving era of spaceships and Sputniks.

"They just don't put the same workmanship into cars today that they did 20 or 30 years ago," said David Macdonald, 4794 Interurban Road, president of the Victoria Region Vintage Car Club of Canada, bought truck three years ago.

"We don't collect old cars because of any particular dedication to preserving the past. We just enjoy driving them," added club vice-president Ken Showers, 575 Walter.

BOTH MECHANICS

Both men, in their early twenties, are mechanics and work for local car dealers.

"We have about 40 members in the club and at least 35 cars," said David. "They range from a 1911 Cadillac to a 1928 Gardiner roadster—the only one still known to exist—to a 1930 Packard super eight."

The club also boasts a 1921 American La France firetruck.

EXTINCT BREED

David owns the Gardiner—a breed which passed into extinction in the early 30s—and is co-owner of the firetruck with Ken.

"Actually, I own three Gardiners. An elderly lady gave me one about three years ago and I began to collect them," he explained. "I bought the rare 1921 model from a retired military man in Duncan. The owner of the third one heard I was collecting Gardiners and asked me if I wanted to buy his."

PASS THE WORD

"That's the way it is with vintage car collectors," interjected Ken. "You get to be known and when people hear of an old car being sold they pass you the word."

He explained how one club member had been trying unsuccessfully to buy a 1931 Chrysler coupe from an old lady who had driven the car since new. But it just wasn't for sale.

"Then somebody tipped him that she wasn't driving any more and the car was for sale. He went over and bought it."

STILL ON ROAD

The two car collectors picked up the firetruck last year from members of the Vancouver vintage car club. It was decommissioned in 1958.

"To my knowledge it's the only pre-1929 ladder truck still on the road," said Ken.

The firetruck and six vintage cars from the club recently appeared in the Roaring Twenties scene of the centennial pageant.

"We have no trouble getting parts," said Ken.

Ferry Service for showing the highway as a secondary road on their brochures.

"We feel this has cut tourist traffic to Nanaimo and north," Al Rae, chamber president said Monday. "It has led some people to believe only gravel roads exist on the upper island."

The chamber will ask all island chambers to support a request for the government to inaugurate a down-to-town service between Vancouver and Nanaimo.

Backroad Romance

Vintage car enthusiast David Macdonald gets ready to take 1921 American La France firetruck on tour of backroads near his Interurban Road home. He and friend Ken Showers, both members of Victoria Region Vintage Car Club of Canada, bought truck three years ago.

Navy Set For Visit To Fair

The flag of Rear-Admiral E. W. Finch-Noyes will fly from the mast of HMCS Fraser, senior ship in the Second Canadian Escort Squadron, during the scheduled visit of RCN ships to Seattle early next month.

Admiral Finch-Noyes, senior naval officer on the west coast, will take part in ceremonies marking Canada week at the Seattle world's fair.

The ships, including destroyer escorts Saguenay, Ottawa, Skeena and Margaree, will sail from Esquimalt at 8 a.m. Sept. 10, and remain a week in Seattle. The admiral, however, is expected to return to his duties here earlier in the week.

Outlined in lights as they ride at anchor in Elliott Bay, off Seattle's waterfront, the Esquimalt-based ships will provide one of the colorful Canadian attractions for fairgoers during the week.

Other attractions include the Canadian military tattoo, the RCMP musical ride, and aerobically displays by the RCMP Golden Hawks.

The warships will be berthed at Pier 91 during periods when the ships will be open to visitors.

Capt. Hayes Takes Over Next Tuesday

Brief ceremonies marking change in command of the B.C. Pacific Command's Second Canadian Escort Squadron will be held aboard HMCS Fraser next Tuesday morning.

The occasion is the handing over of command by Captain Geoffrey Hayes.

Capt. Brown will become chief of staff to Rear-Admiral E. W. Finch-Noyes, flag officer Pacific Coast. Captain J. C. Pratt, formerly chief of staff here, will take the rank of commander when he becomes chief of staff to the flag officer Atlantic Coast.

Abstract Forms Needed

One or two concrete abstract forms full of holes for children to climb through are needed at Cadboro-Gyro Park in Cadboro Bay, Saanich parks committee chairman said yesterday.

Cous. Gregory Cook said he has no idea who could design such an object, but that one or two are needed to "set off" the overall appearance.

A model ship has already been constructed near the beach for children to play on. Coun. Cook said he will now look into the possibility of fitting the mockup vessel with some type of inexpensive noisemakers to help keep the kiddies occupied.

Half of Tuition Fee

72 Island Students Win Provincial Scholarships

Seventy-two Vancouver Island university students, including 47 from Victoria, have won government of British Columbia Scholarships equal to one-half their next year's tuition fees.

Qualifying mark was 80 per cent or higher in the 1962 examinations at Victoria University and the University of British Columbia.

A total of 380 students in the province won first class honors.

In addition there were approximately 1,300 UBC and Victoria University students with second class standing who qualify for scholarships equal to one-third their tuition fees.

Education Minister Leslie Peterson said the first-class scholarships ranged in value from $181 in the faculty of arts to $264 in medicine. He noted a 25 per cent increase in two years in the number of candidates. "This is a commendable achievement," he said.

Following are first class honors winners:

PORT ALBERNI—The Mar. Lady Rose had a full complement of passengers for the cruise to Bamfield Sunday marking the opening of Alberni Valley's Tyee Week.

Tyee club president Pete Karsholt and the club's secretary, Mrs. Anne Crossland, were among the 100 passengers aboard for the trip which got under way at 9 a.m.

Estranged Wife Shoots, Kills Husband, Self

An estranged wife, fearful of losing her husband, made sure early Sunday no one else would ever get him.

Louise Helen Mosher, about 30, shot Clifford Everett Mosher, 39, as he lay sleeping in the bed of her apartment at 527 Selkirk, police said.

She then turned the heavy 12-gauge pump shotgun on herself. Police found her crumpled on the floor beside the bed about 4 p.m. Sunday, nine hours after the murder-suicide.

WEAPON BOUGHT

The death weapon was bought last week by Mrs. Mosher in a downtown department store. She also bought a box of No. 7 1/2 birdshot.

Coroner Dr. J. H. Moore found yesterday that both had died by the hand of Mrs. Mosher.

Mrs. K. A. Moeskau, who lives on the ground floor, heard a loud noise at 6:10 a.m. Sunday.

Another shot was heard about an hour later.

BEEN DEPENDENT

Investigating police said Mrs. Mosher had apparently been dependent for some time about losing her husband.

The bodies were discovered Sunday afternoon by visitors who became alarmed when no one answered the door.

Mr. Mosher was found in bed, his hand tucked under his head in a posture of sleep, shot in the left side of the face with a single shell.

LIVE SHELL

There was a live shell in the gun, lying beside Mrs. Mosher on the floor of the blood-spattered bedroom. The box of shells was found under a bathtub in the suite.

Three shells had been removed, and the bill of sale for the gun and ammunition tucked into it.

Mrs. Mosher had been estranged from her husband since March, police said.

He had come from Vancouver on a regular weekend visit Saturday. He had moved to Vancouver following their estrangement.

CHILD DROWNED

The couple had at least one child who drowned in an accident some time ago, it is believed.

Mrs. Mosher had been under the care of a Victoria psychiatrist.

Both bodies are at McCall's Funeral Home, pending funeral arrangements.

Saanich Youth Dies In Tree-Car Crash

A 20-year-old Saanich man died in St. Joseph's Hospital Sunday, 12 hours after being crushed under the wheel of the car he was driving.

John Carlson, 1010 Jasmine, was flung from the car as it bounced off a tree. The front wheel ran over his head pinning his body under the vehicle for 10 minutes before he could be released.

Treated at the hospital and released was Robert Martin, 1563 Richardson, owner of the car.

LOST CONTROL

Police said Carlson was driving along Shelbourne near Torquay about 2:30 a.m. Sunday when he lost control of the vehicle.

It sidestepped the tree on the roadside, bounced and struck a raised driveway before careening across the road.

The Saanich youth's skull was fractured. An investigating officer said he would have lived had he been wearing a seat belt.

JACKING UP CAR

Bystanders were jacking up the car to get Carlson out when police arrived.

He died at 2:05 p.m. Sunday. Born and raised here, he is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Carlson, 1010 Jasmine. He graduated from St. Louis College in 1959 and was apprenticed to an electrical firm at the time of his death.

An inquest has been ordered for 10 a.m. Thursday.

Searchers of city records by both city engineer Ann Garbutt and city clerk Frank Hunter have failed to turn up any reference to the erection of the sign. Investigations are continuing.

MUNGO MONUMENT: Oyster dealer Dave McMillan would like to see a public appeal started to provide a suitable monument for the grave of Kwakiutl carver Chief Mungo Martin. BAD PUBLICITY: Despite solemn assurances by Esquimalt-Saanich MP George Chatterton after the June 18 election, some of his fluorescent campaign posters can still be seen on power poles along the Malahat.

FINE STORY: Genial publicity commissioner Bill Hawthorne has cleared up the mystery of the fishing photo being used on publicity bureau folders—seems the word "Sonside" along the side of the boat refers to a Campbell River motel where the photo was taken, not Besside, Oregon. So this means we are using a photo of a fish caught at Campbell River in a folder which advises tourists to "Come to Victoria, British Columbia, on Canada's Treasure Island."

Trucks Crash Over Bank, Driver Leaps to Safety

ALBERNI — Two towing trucks crashed down a 200-foot bank when the side of Tolfo-Alberni highway gave way beneath them in a spectacular weekend accident.

Driver of a 10,000-pound vehicle belonging to Valley Auto Body Ltd., Alberni, bailed out a few feet down the bank, while the truck and a smaller one it was towing continued to fall. He was not hurt.

The accident occurred approximately 12 miles out on the highway in the Taylor Arm area.

NANAIMO — Fire, which broke out about 1 a.m. Monday, destroyed the roof and most of the upstairs of the home of Marvin Haugen of Wellington, despite efforts of Wellington and Northfield fire departments to control it.

Cause of the fire, which started in the attic, has not been determined and the damage has not been ascertained, although it is known to be considerable.

The fire was discovered by Mr. Haugen and his 16-year-old son, who noticed the red glare in the sky through the windows of the room where they were sitting watching a late television show.

Nanaimo-Vancouver Link Sought

NANAIMO — The general manager of Casadair Air Services, Barry Morris, has announced his company will commence a plane service between Nanaimo Harbor and Vancouver Harbor if a contract to carry the mails can be secured from the government.

UNE AMPHIBIAN

The company would operate the service with a 10 or 12-passenger amphibian plane, which would give a downtown-to-downtown passenger service, and also permit the plane to fly out to Cassidy Airport for maintenance in the shop there.

A service which Casadair previously operated between Cassidy Airport and the Vancouver International Airport had to be abandoned because the plane being used was a land-based machine and frequently could not be brought down at Vancouver because of fog.

NO FACTOR

This would not be a factor in the operation of a float plane.

The company intends to seek the support of Nanaimo regional for the proposed service.

Venus Shot Not Far Off Course

China Bomb 'Nuisance'

ANABRILO, Tex. (UPI) — A bomb scientist Dr. Edward Teller said Monday that, even if Communist China manages to explode a nuclear bomb, it will make the Chinese more of a "nuisance" than a serious threat to the free world.

"The spread of nuclear weapons is unavoidable," Teller said.

Perhaps Soon

Nuclear Weapon For China

By PHIL NEWSON
UPI News Analyst

The United States issued a reminder on Monday that at least a crude nuclear weapon soon may be available to the man who wrote that "political power comes from the barrel of a gun."

The man who coined that phrase is Mao Tse-tung, spiritual and physical leader of Red China.

EARLY WARNING

A senior official of the U.S. Arms Control and Disarmament Agency held up the spectre of Red China's future nuclear capabilities before a group of U.S. and foreign newsmen. In a first version he predicted that the Red Chinese "probably" could touch off a nuclear blast within a matter of months. A retraction revised the time element to perhaps a year or more than a year.

In themselves, neither the earlier nor the later version contained anything new. Since the beginning of this year there have been warnings that Red China had the knowledge and probably the resources to explode such a device within a frighteningly short time.

TIMING SIGNIFICANT

Of perhaps more immediate significance was the timing, coupled as it was with the joint announcement by President Kennedy and Prime Minister Macmillan that the United States and Britain would accept a nuclear test ban agreement which did not include on-site inspections of tests in the atmosphere, in outer space or underwater.

The announcement said the two nations would continue to insist on on-site inspection of underground explosions. Red China clearly is part of the thinking.

Critics Excluded

Bishop's Twist Defended

GUILDFORD, England (CP) — A clergyman has asked critics of a bishop who dined the twist to keep away from his church after it is built.

Rev. Roy Trevian said the critics of Bishop George Reisdorf would be "quite lost among a bunch of people who not only say their prayers but who can also enjoy themselves without thinking too much about their dignity."

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — The U.S. Mariner II spaceship sped toward an intended December rendezvous with the planet Venus Monday night after several anxious hours when project scientists feared the craft was too far off course to carry out its mission.

But officials announced late Monday after exhaustive study of tracking data that "the space craft is on a trajectory that can be corrected to make it fly by Venus within a distance of 10,000 miles as planned."

ONLY 200,000

They reported that the 447-pound space voyager had been propelled only 250,000 miles off course instead of the 600,000 miles indicated by early figures.

If the United States' newest and brightest planetary explorer completes its assignment after a journey of 180,000,000 miles, it will provide the world's first closeup look at mysteries of the puzzling planet.

Among other things, Mariner II could determine whether life exists on Venus — something doubted by most scientists.

Mariner II carries a tiny 37.3-pound motor capable of correcting a trajectory error of up to 500,000 miles.

If applied to the 600,000-mile figure, firing the motor would have brought Mariner II only within 100,000 miles of Venus — far beyond the maximum 25,000-range officials set for obtaining useful data about the mysterious, cloud-shrouded planet.

FORMULAS NEEDED

Scientists set to work preparing precise formulas needed for the critical firing of the motor in eight days, on Sept. 4.

They noted that all communications, data-gathering and other systems were working perfectly but that electronic bugs or space dangers — such as radiation, varying temperature and meteorites — could ruin parts of the experiment.

Even if the mid-course manoeuvre does work, they said, Mariner II would still face formidable hurdles on its trip.

MANCHESTER, England

(Reuters) — Sir Bernard Lovell, director of Britain's giant radio telescope at Jodrell Bank, said Monday that if the instruments on the United States Venus rocket continue to work it will be the world's most successful investigation of space.

Reds to Talk

MOSCOW (AP) — Cuban Economics Minister Ernesto (Che) Guevara flew into Moscow Monday, a usually reliable source reported. His visit will be announced officially today.

The informant said, adding that the announcement will say Guevara came to discuss construction of a steel mill in Cuba.

We Can't Lose Sacred Slogan

By TERRY HAMMOND

A quiet but nonetheless maximum effort is being made by the Social Credit party to recapture the elusive Revelstoke legislative seat in the Sept. 4 byelection.

Dykes Go 84 Killed In Korea

SEOUL (AP) — Several dykes collapsed early today at Suwon, 200 miles south of Seoul, sending disastrous flood waters from the rain-swollen Nam River pouring through the city. Officials said 84 persons were killed and 50 were missing.

More than 2,000 houses in the city of 70,000 population were flooded.

The valley was drenched by five inches of rain within a few hours late Monday afternoon.

Power Pact Closer

OTTAWA (CP) — Justice Minister Fleming said Monday night his four-hour conference Monday with Premier Bennett of British Columbia achieved "quite satisfactory progress" on the Columbia River power development.

"We've never been closer together," chimed in Mr. Bennett at a brief press conference following their private meeting, which included a number of federal officials as well.

NO DETAILS

However, neither Mr. Fleming nor Mr. Bennett would go into details of the points under discussion. They said they plan a further "exchange" before Parliament meets Sept. 27. Canada has signed a treaty with the United States for development of the power potential of the international river but the treaty has not yet been ratified by Parliament pending agreement between Ottawa and the B.C. government on sale of downstream power benefits and financing of the $300,000,000 project.

Tropical Storm Forming in East

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — The first tropical storm in the Atlantic this season boiled up Monday and gale warnings were raised from Morehead City to Cape Hatteras, N.C.

The storm, named Alma by forecasters, was about 160 miles east-southeast of Charleston, S.C., at 6 p.m. EDT and was packing winds up to 45 miles an hour near the centre.

ALGIERS (AP) — Several hundred veiled Moslem women marched through the streets of Algiers Monday, clamoring for bread and freedom from the capit's military rulers.

Some were accompanied by children as they spilled out of the ancient casbah, carrying banners and chanting slogans. Troops of the guerrilla army controlling the Algiers military zone made no attempt to disrupt the demonstration, which underlined the rising anger of Algeria's hungry masses.

FORM COMMITTEE

To the west, military leaders rallied to the support of Ahmed Ben Bella and appealed to the people to form vigilance committees against the guerrilla chieftains in Algiers.

The 20,000-man guerrilla army here has forced Ben Bella to abandon, at least temporarily, efforts to function as a leader in Algiers, in effect vetoing his bid to form a central Algerian government in the capital.

BUREAU CRIPPLED

His political bureau, thus crippled, announced last Saturday that it could no longer function here. In the prepared text of its announcement the bureau said it could no longer "function usefully" because of guerrilla army pressures. When bureau spokesman Mohammed Khider read the announcement to reporters, he conspicuously omitted the word "usefully."

IRRESPONSIBLE ACTS

The general staff of the 45,000-man regular army, based at Oran in western Algeria, the city to which Ben Bella and most of his political bureau retired, accused guerrillas in this central Algerian city of "irresponsible acts obstructing the rebirth of the state."

It called Ben Bella's political bureau — a seven-man body which failed to get off the ground — the nation's "only legitimate authority."

SEEKS SUPPORT

It seemed obvious to officials of various defunct ministries in Algiers that Ben Bella was attempting to muster decisive military support in western Algeria.

So far, all Algerian military and civilian leaders have stressed the desperate need to avert bloodshed.

She'd Trade Baby For Family Home

DERBY, England (Reuters) — Mrs. Jean Rook, a mother of six, Monday offered to give away her month-old baby in exchange for a house.

Mrs. Rook, baby Jacqueline and her five other children, have been staying at a city welfare home here and her unemployed husband, Jim, 35, at a Salvation

Army men's hostel, since they were evicted from their low-rent council home.

"The family should stick together and we have trapped the streets to get a home," said Mrs. Rook. "Now in desperation we have made this decision. We love the baby very much, but we have no alternative."

$1,000,000 Tornado In Saskatchewan Rips Farms Apart

EARL GREY, Sask. (CP) — A violent tornado early Monday tore through an area three miles wide and 30 miles long in south-central Saskatchewan, scattering granaries, trees and crops.

Damage was estimated at between $500,000 and $1,000,000.

MORE THAN 100

With winds reported at more than 100 miles an hour, the funnel of wind hit first at the farm of Ernest Foster, about seven miles north of this farming community and about 50 miles north of Regina.

In the main area, nearly all granaries were demolished. At the Foster farm, the only buildings intact were the house and a garage and these were damaged.

FIVE DEATHS

A large barn was crumpled around the hay stored in the loft. Five granaries were completely destroyed.

The funnel swept across the farm lands draping swathed grain across fences and telephone lines.

It's Winter In Alberta

CALGARY (CP) — Winter made a sneak attack on Alberta during the weekend. Pincher Creek yesterday morning reported a low of 32 degrees. Kimberley in B.C. also had a 32 reading yesterday.

Snow fell in the Banff area. At Bow Summit, 8,300 feet above sea level on the Banff-Jasper Highway, between two and five inches of snow was reported.

Continuing east, the wind hit the Alex Buchan farm, ripping off the end of a large barn. Six miles north of the wind storm, a hail storm hit in an identical area, 30 miles long and three miles wide, causing 35 to 100 per cent damage to all crops.

Interpreting the News

Red Arms in Cuba Real Worries to U.S.

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The United States is deeply perturbed by the reported Soviet arms buildup in Cuba. While the situation has not yet become "intolerable," there is every indication that Cuban-American relations will worsen.

The immediate worry in American quarters is not that the reinforced Communist structure on the Caribbean island will directly endanger the U.S., but it will assist and prolong the Fidel Castro regime and help to spread its influence in Latin America.

At the same time there is concern over the limited success of the Alliance-for-Progress aid program, at raising living standards through Latin America. The 10-year, $20,000,000,000 program, in which the U.S. loans half the bill, has accomplished little in its first year.

Inflation and unemployment, entrenched reaction and revolutionary turmoil have played havoc with pledges of many Latin American countries to reform government administration and taxation systems.

Many Latin American officials, in turn, have blamed U.S. alliance officials for failing to understand their diverse problems.

Economically, the Castro regime may be faring no better than some of the other impoverished countries. But Soviet aid may veil the true state of Cuban industry and the battalions of "technicians" Castro is reported to be importing from the Soviet bloc may help to strangle any major show of restlessness among the Cuban citizens.

The stronger Castro becomes the more difficult it will be to dislodge him.

Danger Now Past In Smallpox Scare

TORONTO (CP) — Most people who may have come in contact with smallpox victim James William Orr, 14, now are past the danger of infection, health officials said Monday.

The boy set off an international scare this month when it was discovered here that he had the disease after a trip from the Brazilian jungle with his missionary father.
